Work Through Hole In Wall Of Sandbags

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Working through a small hole in a wall of sandbags, two U.S. surgeons successfully removed a live grenade from a Vietnamese farmer's back today.

"It's in the box," Maj. Gen. James W. Humphreys Jr. shouted as he released the grenade into a wooden case half filled with sand after pulling it from the back of frail, Nguyen Tran Chinh, 52.

Chinh became a walking explosive Sunday when a Viet Cong fired the 40mm grenade into his back. The missile 6 inches long and 2 inches wide lodged in his lower back beneath the 12th rib.

Humphreys, a chest surgeon from Richmond, Va., was assisted by another chest surgeon, Air Force Col. Daniel Campbell of Inlet Beach, Fla., a British anesthetist, Dr. Tony Brown, gave Chinh a local anesthetic. Brown is attached to the U.S. aid mission.

Humphreys is a former commander of the hospital at Wright - Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio.

The doctors, who volunteered for the job, operated from behind a 10-foot-high stack of sandbags. They were about four feet away from the patient.

Inserting their instruments through an opening below a large pane of bulletproof glass, they made an incision with a scalpel attached to a 6-foot-long steel arm.

Then Humphreys picked out the grenade with a 6-foot pair of tweezers and placed it gently in the box of sand. It was about 2 feet from the wound to the box.

"If I had dropped it, the whole show would have been over," Humphreys said.

A U.S. Army demolition expert, Maj. Daniel Doty of Marina, Calif., carried the box to a sandbagged jeep. It was to be detonated outside Saigon.

The grenade can kill at five yards and cause serious injury far beyond that distance.

Chinh sat up and smiled as he was helped to a stretcher. Blood was running down his back from the long incision.

"Take him to the surgery and clean that up," Humphreys said, wiping the sweat from his face.

At Request Of Hills

Cases Dismissed On Sunday Sales

Acting at the request of counsel for Hills Department Store in St. Clair Plaza, Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today dismissed affidavits in which 11 downtown East Liverpool merchants were charged with violating the Ohio "blue law" by transacting business on Sunday.

But the judge warned merchants that "withdrawal of these charges in no way means that the Sunday law can be violated with impunity." He added that if the Hills management does not file charges for new violations "maybe someone else will" and declared that merchants "should take warning from these cases and obey the law."

Thomas Coe of Salem, counsel for the department store, made the motion for dismissal, which was concurred in by Richard J. Clark, assistant city solicitor. Clark appeared as the prosecutor when two business places were convicted of Sunday law violations in hearings Thursday and a third was dismissed.

In three actions heard yesterday, William O'Neil of Peoples Drugstore and Howard Bloor of Price - Less Discount Store, both of E. 5th St., were convicted of violating the Sunday law for allowing sales on Sunday. O'Neil was charged specifically with allowing sale of a 98-cent towel and Bloor was accused of permitting sale of a deck of playing cards.

Malcolm McBurney of McBurney's Pharmacy on W. 6th St. was acquitted of a charge of making a Sunday sale of a non-necessity. Testimony showed McBurney was accused of allowing sale of an insecticide, but the court ruled the insecticide is a "necessity" and therefore exempt under Ohio law.

Fines of $25 and costs were imposed on O'Neil and Bloor as an aftermath of the hearings. But they also were set aside as part of the action today.

Coe's motion for dismissal covered the nine cases still remaining in the dozen filed by Ernest Fannin, manager, and Howard Spoon, supervisor, at the Hills Department Store.

Following the dismissals, George A. Aronson, counsel for Bloor and O'Neil, moved for new trials for the two defendants.

The court granted the motions and then dismissed the charges so that the two defendants would not be singled out simply because their cases were among the first three to be heard.

Coe commented he made his motion for dismissal after con-

Action Looms For Recounts In Two Races

Mayoralty Contests In Washingtonville And Salem Involved

The possibility of recounts in closely - fought mayoralty races in Salem and Washingtonville loomed today as the County Election Board moved into the home stretch of its official canvass of returns from the general election Tuesday.

Willaim A. Radler, who apparently lost by five votes in a bid to unseat Mayor B. W. Snow of Washingtonville, already has indicated to the board he will seek a recount if the tabulation is borne out in the official canvass, according to Frank R. O'Hanlon, director of elections.

Washingtonville is split by the Columbiana - Mahoning County line, which poses endless complications in the recount applications and procedure. The combined unofficial totals from the two precincts showed 133 for Snow and 128 for Radler.

O'Hanlon said there also has been an unofficial intimation that Frank Mason, Republican, may seek a recount of the tabulation in which he apparently was defeated by 63 votes in a

Boards Told To Proceed On Apportionment Plan

Temporary Restraining Order Lifted

33 Senators, 99 Representatives Slated Under Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Secretary of State Ted W. Brown notified county boards of election today to proceed with plans for election of state legislators next year under a new apportionment plan.

His action came on the heels of a 10th District Court of Appeals move. Judge William C. Bryant lifted a temporary order restraining the secretary from acting under the plan, calling for election of 33 state senators and 99 representatives from single member districts.

Bryant had issued the temporary order enjoining Brown from acting and Gov. James A. Rhodes from further advertising the plan which replaces the present one under which 32 senators were elected from districts and 137 representatives from counties.

Only Thursday Atty. Gen. William Saxbe asked the court to modify the order so as not to affect the 1966 election.

Bryant said he granted the request principally because a candidate for legislator must be a resident of a district a year before his election. He had granted the original restraining order, he said, in accordance with a federal court ruling issued Oct. 27.

That ruling by the three-judge federal panel—which a year ago ordered Ohio legislative reapportionment in the first place, then last month accepted the all - Republican three - member apportionment board's design—said no challenges in state courts could affect the Nov. 8, 1966 election.

Judge Bryant said that the federal court was "simply absolute" regarding noninterference with the 1966 plans and that with Nov. 8, 1965 practically at hand there was no time to waste. He promptly modified the restraining order that had been issued at the behest of AFL-CIO President Frank W. King, Democratic leader in the Ohio Senate.

The federal court noted that legality of the apportionment board and its action could still be challenged in state courts as an Ohio constitutional matter. But that could affect only elections after next year's.

Saxbe expected today to ask the 10th District Court to go a step further than the "modifica-

KENNEDY BUST UNVEILED. A memorial to the late President John F. Kennedy was dedicated by his brother, Sen. Robert Kennedy of New York, at the Weirton Community Center Thursday. West Virginia Gov. WEIRTON — An estimated 3,500 attended the dedication of a memorial to the late President John F. Kennedy Thursday at the Community Center, with the President's brother, Sen. Robert Kennedy of New York, speaking briefly.

The memorial, a 32-inch bust on a 54-inch inscribed granite base, sits in an alcove of the Center where President Kennedy spoke on May 1, 1960, when he was a candidate in West Virginia's presidential primary.

Sen. Kennedy noted that if it wasn't for West Virginia's support of his brother in the 1960 state presidential primary, "President Kennedy wouldn't have had his 1,000 days in office."

"This is a very happy. . . but also a sad occasion," he said. He added that he attended such ceremonies due to the wishes of Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy and the Kennedy family.

Also present for the ceremonies were members of the state's congressional delegation and Gov. Hulett Smith.

Will Seek Re-Election

De Gaulle Seen Assured Of New Term In France

PARIS (AP) — The French presidential race was in effect over today, even before it officially starts, with President Charles de Gaulle generally conceded a sure victory.

The only suspense of the campaign was ended Thursday night when De Gaulle announced he is willing to be re-elected. The announcement was no surprise.

At least five candidates will oppose De Gaulle. All have been campaigning vigorously for several weeks, but each admits privately that he has no hope of winning. Unofficial soundings have indicated that De Gaulle might get as much as 65 per cent of the total vote.

The only hope of the opposition candidates is to corral 50 per cent of the vote in the Dec. 5 election. Then there would be a runoff on Dec. 19 between the two top men. De Gaulle's ego might be bruised by failure to get a majority on the first round, but his victory on the second ballot probably would be certain.

The closing date for candidates to file is Nov. 16, and the campaign will not officially open until the next day. In addition to the six principal aspirants, several political unknowns have said they would file.

De Gaulle apparently intends to run with no formal party backing, underlining his often-expressed contempt for the political parties which kept French political life so often in turmoil before De Gaulle came to power. Officials of the Gaullist Union for a New Republic have said they expect to have no part in the campaign as a party. But this will not prevent UNR members from making a maximum personal effort to get the vote out.

Opposing De Gaulle will be: Francois Mitterrand, many times a minister in the Fourth Republic, who has the backing of Socialists, Communists and other left-wing groups; Jean-Louis Tixier-Vignancour, a Paris lawyer long associated with right-wing causes and a minister in the occupation Vichy government; Paul Antier, a former agriculture minister who hopes to get votes from farmers irritated by De Gaulle's Common Market policies; Pierre Marcilhacy, a senator, and Jean Lecanuet, former national president of the Catholic Popular Republican Movement.

De Gaulle, finishing his first seven-year term and turning 75 on Nov. 22, looked hale and hearty, firm and vigorous in his brief television address announcing his decision.

He recalled that he had stepped in 25 years ago to speak for France after the Nazis overran the country. He said he returned to power in 1958 "to avoid civil war."

Now, he continued, "I believe I must hold myself ready to carry on my task, judging fully what an effort it will be, but convinced that presently it is the best way to serve France."

U.S. Jobless Rate Dips To 8-Year Low

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's jobless rate dipped to an eight-year low of 4.3 per cent in October, but you'd almost think the Labor Department was trying to hide the good news.

Usually trumped at the start of the monthly job report — and sometimes even announced from the White House — the favorable figure was buried Thursday in the midst of a mass of other facts and figures.

Actually, the government is launching a major effort to switch the nation's attention on its oft-criticized unemployment figures from percentages to people.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics, under new management, emphasized instead that the number of jobless men, woman and teen-agers totaled 2.8 million. It also reported total employment at an all-time October high of 73.2 million.

"Unemployment rates have become part of the noise level of society," and nobody pays much attention, said Arthur M. Ross in his first news conference as commissioner of the bureau.

"We say the unemployment rate among adult men was 'only' 2.6 per cent, but it's a million people," Ross said.

One million adult women and 800,000 teen-agers made up the rest of the jobless.

Ross said too much emphasis in the past on the monthly jobless percentage rate had created a lack of understanding around the country about what the figure really shows.

U.S. Jobless Rate Dips To 8-Year Low

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's jobless rate dipped to an eight-year low of 4.3 per cent in October, but you'd almost think the Labor Department was trying to hide the good news.

Usually trumped at the start of the monthly job report — and sometimes even announced from the White House — the favorable figure was buried Thursday in the midst of a mass of other facts and figures.

Actually, the government is launching a major effort to switch the nation's attention on its oft-criticized unemployment figures from percentages to people.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics, under new management, emphasized instead that the number of jobless men, woman and teen-agers totaled 2.8 million. It also reported total employment at an all-time October high of 73.2 million.

"Unemployment rates have become part of the noise level of society," and nobody pays much attention, said Arthur M. Ross in his first news conference as commissioner of the bureau.

"We say the unemployment rate among adult men was 'only' 2.6 per cent, but it's a million people," Ross said.

One million adult women and 800,000 teen-agers made up the rest of the jobless.

bid to unseat Salem Mayor Dean Cranmer, Democrat.

The complete, unofficial totals showed 2,289 for Cranmer and 2,226 for Mason.

O'Hanlon emphasized that any candidate must await the completion of the official canvass before proceeding with a recount application. Law allows such a petition to be filed within five days after the official count is certified. The applicant must specify the precincts which he seeks to have recounted and post a $10 cash bond to cover each.

The closest race in East Liverpool, on the face of the unofficial returns, gave Harold R. Maylone, Republican, a 16-vote margin over Robert B. Laughlin, Democrat, in the contest for a Fourth Ward Council seat. Maylone was credited with 665 to Laughlin's 649. O'Hanlon said there has been no indication Laughlin will ask a recount.

In the Washingtonville contest, Radler must wait until Mahoning County makes official certification of its returns before proceeding with any recount application, O'Hanlon pointed out. Indications are that Mahoning County's official canvass will not be completed until next week.

Because the election involves two counties, Radler would be required to file a recount application with the Columbiana County Board, which administers the Washingtonville elections. Arrangements then probably would be made to conduct the recount of the two precincts at the county board's office in East Liverpool.

The unofficial tabulation showed that the Columbiana County segment of the village cast 93 votes for Radler and 105 for Snow. The Mahoning County section cast 35 for Radler and 28 for Snow.

The official canvass was launched Thursday morning. The figures have been compiled for the larger communities such as East Liverpool, East Palestine and Salem, but the canvass must be completed yet on school districts, townships and other rural areas and a host of special questions and issues.

Even though the figures are entered on the abstracts, there will be much detail work to be completed before the certification can be made to Secretary of State Ted W. Brown at Columbus, O'Hanlon emphasized.

He said there is a possibility the canvass may be completed this afternoon or this evening, but it is almost a certainty the figures will be certified to Columbus under Saturday's date.

sulting with the department store management primarily because of a lecture delivered by the judge early Thursday afternoon when he heard the last of the three Sunday cases scheduled for that date.

The other outstanding charges named: Gallagher's McAllister Market, 629 St. Clair Ave.; the Isaly Dairy Store on E. 6th St.; Shirl Vincent as manager of the Pearl China Co. on old Route 30; Rayl's Market, 246 W. 4th St.; Reark's Cigar Store in the Little Building; McGill's Grocery at E. 3rd and Washington Sts; Golden Star Dairyland at W. 5th and Market Sts.; Sevey's Pharmacy, 2241 St. Clair Ave., and Bloor's Pharmacy, 1010 Pennsylvania Ave.

Fannin and Spoon filed all the charges on Oct. 25, alleging that the merchants violated the "blue law" by transacting business on Sunday, Oct. 17.

The judge in his lecture referred to the East Liverpool business community as "a Garden of Eden in which peace and tranquillity reigned for many years."

"My father was in business here in 1901 and I remember him remarking to me that the merchants did not have any problems," the judge said. "All of a sudden the serpent moved into the garden and tempted the inhabitants with the golden apple and now we have this silly, assinine situation where affidavits and counter - affidavits are filed. It has reached the point of absolute idiocy.

"Both sides have made their point," the judge said. "Both sides should get down to brass tacks and clean up their own houses. This is the law and this court can only follow the law.

"Mr. Clark, who has done a good job in prosecuting these cases, has his own feelings on that state law and the court has its own feelings. Nevertheless, he will prosecute and I will judge according to the law."

The court commended the Hills management for its requests for the dismissals, commenting that the series of charges and counter - charges "is a silly business that could lead to no good."

"But I wish to warn all merchants that the withdrawal of the charges in no way means that they can violate the law," he continued. "The statute still is on the books. If Hills does not prosecute, maybe someone else will. Businessmen should take a warning from this and obey the law."

The court chamber was crowded with businessmen and attorneys this morning as the last act was written in the Sunday closing controversy — at least for the time being.

Coe appeared as a friend of the court, as he was not officially involved in any of the cases. He had sat through the proceedings yesterday and heard the court's lecture when the last of the three cases had been disposed of.

"I listened to the words which the court spoke yesterday and I cannot help but concur," Coe said. "It seems to me this situation has gotten out of hand and will serve no real purpose.

"I feel this is a stupid law—ill-written, difficult to interpret and unnecessary. I would like to see the law abolished. I hope the cases already presented will bring home to the people the fact that the law definitely needs revision.

"The court made some strong statements to the effect that the cases helped point up the silliness of the law and made both sides appear silly in prosecuting. I agree with the court on both points."

Then he made the request for dismissal of the remaining cases.

Clark made the formal motion for dismissal.

In dismissing the charges, the court commented on the "vague, indefinitely, meaningless law." But he added that "eradication of a bad law is essentially a task for the legislative authority."

"Although it is inappropriate to modern times, it is still a 'living' law and must be treated as such," the court said. "The remedy lies with the legislature, not the courts."

The judge said Ohioans should make their views known to the legislature, whether they favor repeal, retention or modification of the Sunday closing law.

In releasing the actions, he dismissed them all "without costs," which means that defendants who had posted $32.50 appearance bonds received full refunds.

In deciding the McBurney case yesterday, the court pointed out that the state law allows a drugstore to sell drugs, pharmaceuticals and such items on Sunday.

The judge ruled that insecticide is a drug within the meaning of the law, pointing out he found it listed in the U.S. Pharmacopoeia, a publication showing drugs that are recognized as standard.

"For example, if a family moved into a house on a Saturday and found it infested with vermin, then the purchase of insecticide on Sunday could be ruled a necessity," the judge said.

In the case of the Price-Less Discount Store, the defense contended that playing cards are an item related to "recreation," one of the general class of merchandise allowed to be sold on Sunday. Aronson and Bernard Fineman represented the store.

But the court, after consulting an unabridged dictionary and finding cards listed as "gaming equipment," ruled that they could not be classed as an "essential" item. He then ruled the defendant quilty — a judgment that was set aside with the dismissal today.

Meanwhile, Paul F. Reed of Salem R.D. 5 forfeited a $27.50 bond on a charge of speeding 65 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone on the same stretch. He was cited Nov. 1.

Kenneth Hubbard, 20, of Smiths Ferry R.D. 1 was fined $5 and costs when he pleaded guilty to making an illegal turn at E. 5th and Washington Sts. He was cited Thursday at 10:45 a.m.

found on the banks of the Ohio River at Monaca Oct. 24.

Marshall Olshanski of Monaca, who was fishing at the time, notified Monaca police that there was a box on the river bank and he feared there might be a baby in it.

The police found the baby's body among the debris and took it to Rochester General Hospital.

An autopsy was performed by the Beaver County coroner, Dr. John Colavincenzo, who said the 7½-8-month-old white male was "born alive and died as a result of exposure." The coroner said the "baby was well-developed."

The reapportionment play lays out single-member districts—no countrywide delegations as in previous apportionment—for 99 House of Representatives members and 33 senators. The House up to now has had 137 members, at least one from each of the 88 counties, and there have been 32 senators.

Specifically, the 10th District Court's action Thursday deleted from the restraining order an injunction against Secretary of State Ted Brown accepting candidacies and certifying elections based on the new apportionment plan.

Emergency Proclaimed In Rhodesia

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP)—A countrywide state of emergency was proclaimed in Rhodesia today. The action sparked speculation in the Rhodesian capital that Prime Minister Ian Smith was paving the way to seize independence from Britain.

A surprised government official, who first heard of the emergency when handed a press statement by a newsman, said: "You don't have to read between the lines too closely to guess what is going on."

Rhodesia's minister of justice, law and order, Desmond Lardner-Burke, who ordered the state of emergency for three months, said it was necessary because of a threat to security in Rhodesia. He said trained African saboteurs were either at large in Rhodesia or poised in territories to the north.

"The public is, of course, well aware of incidents of arson, violence, intimidation and other subversive activities taking place in this country at present," said Lardner-Burke.

Newsmen, however, could not recall immediately any incidents of this nature in the last few weeks.

A government spokesman said there were "numerous trained saboteurs sponsored by both proscribed African nationalist organizations" — the Zimbabwe African Peoples Union and the Zimbabwe African National Union. The leaders of both have been confined to remote areas of the country.

City Man Waives Extradition For Hancock Charge

Ray Elmer Wallace, 21, of Pennsylvania Ave. Thursday signed a voluntary waiver of extradition to Hancock County to face a charge in connection with the alleged knife wounding of a New Cumberland physician Oct. 29.

Wallace signed the waiver before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff in connection with a charge filed in Squire John D. Herron's court at New Cumberland by Dr. James E. Fisher. The affidavit alleges that Wallace "maliciously and feloniously cut and wounded one Dr. James E. Fisher and caused him bodily harm with intent to maim, disfigure or kill."

Wallace was taken into custody by East Liverpool police on a fugitive warrant issued from Squire Herron's court. He appeared before Judge Chertoff Wednesday, but his arraignment was continued until today to permit him to obtain counsel. But Wallace decided meanwhile to waive extradition and return to Hancock County voluntarily.

"For example, if a family moved into a house on a Saturday and found it infested with vermin, then the purchase of insecticide on Sunday could be ruled a necessity," the judge said.

In the case of the Price-Less Discount Store, the defense contended that playing cards are an item related to "recreation," one of the general class of merchandise allowed to be sold on Sunday. Aronson and Bernard Fineman represented the store.

But the court, after consulting an unabridged dictionary and finding cards listed as "gaming equipment," ruled that they could not be classed as an "essential" item. He then ruled the defendant quilty — a judgment that was set aside with the dismissal today.

Kenneth Hubbard, 20, of Smiths Ferry R.D. 1 was fined $5 and costs when he pleaded guilty to making an illegal turn at E. 5th and Washington Sts. He was cited Thursday at 10:45 a.m.

found on the banks of the Ohio River at Monaca Oct. 24.

Marshall Olshanski of Monaca, who was fishing at the time, notified Monaca police that there was a box on the river bank and he feared there might be a baby in it.

The police found the baby's body among the debris and took it to Rochester General Hospital.

An autopsy was performed by the Beaver County coroner, Dr. John Colavincenzo, who said the 7½-8-month-old white male was "born alive and died as a result of exposure." The coroner said the "baby was well-developed."

Kaye was acquitted of a charge of abortion by a jury in Beaver County Court on June 14, 1962. That complaint had been filed by Ambridge police.

tion" already granted and throw out King's challenge for good.

The reapportionment play lays out single-member districts—no countrywide delegations as in previous apportionment—for 99 House of Representatives members and 33 senators. The House up to now has had 137 members, at least one from each of the 88 counties, and there have been 32 senators.

Specifically, the 10th District Court's action Thursday deleted from the restraining order an injunction against Secretary of State Ted Brown accepting candidacies and certifying elections based on the new apportionment plan.

Emergency Proclaimed In Rhodesia

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP)—A countrywide state of emergency was proclaimed in Rhodesia today. The action sparked speculation in the Rhodesian capital that Prime Minister Ian Smith was paving the way to seize independence from Britain.

A surprised government official, who first heard of the emergency when handed a press statement by a newsman, said: "You don't have to read between the lines too closely to guess what is going on."

Rhodesia's minister of justice, law and order, Desmond Lardner-Burke, who ordered the state of emergency for three months, said it was necessary because of a threat to security in Rhodesia. He said trained African saboteurs were either at large in Rhodesia or poised in territories to the north.

"The public is, of course, well aware of incidents of arson, violence, intimidation and other subversive activities taking place in this country at present," said Lardner-Burke.

Newsmen, however, could not recall immediately any incidents of this nature in the last few weeks.

A government spokesman said there were "numerous trained saboteurs sponsored by both proscribed African nationalist organizations" — the Zimbabwe African Peoples Union and the Zimbabwe African National Union. The leaders of both have been confined to remote areas of the country.

City Man Waives Extradition For Hancock Charge

Ray Elmer Wallace, 21, of Pennsylvania Ave. Thursday signed a voluntary waiver of extradition to Hancock County to face a charge in connection with the alleged knife wounding of a New Cumberland physician Oct. 29.

Wallace signed the waiver before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff in connection with a charge filed in Squire John D. Herron's court at New Cumberland by Dr. James E. Fisher. The affidavit alleges that Wallace "maliciously and feloniously cut and wounded one Dr. James E. Fisher and caused him bodily harm with intent to maim, disfigure or kill."

Wallace was taken into custody by East Liverpool police on a fugitive warrant issued from Squire Herron's court. He appeared before Judge Chertoff Wednesday, but his arraignment was continued until today to permit him to obtain counsel. But Wallace decided meanwhile to waive extradition and return to Hancock County voluntarily.

More Pep For Ohio Education

It would be a low blow for Ohio's educational progress if the lopsided turndown of Issue No. 1 on the ballot Tuesday caused educators to lose any of their professional pep.

Their PEP (Plan for Educational Progress) program was rejected because it could not be sold to enough voters as the right way to do a right thing. It was not the idea of tackling the problem that was turned down; it was the way the problem was tackled.

The problem is getting worse.

Every school district that turned down a proposed bond levy or operating levy Tuesday showed why it is getting worse. Resistance to property taxation is a tough nut for boards of education.

It is not resistance to real estate levies as such that blocks educational progress as it is the prospect that there will be no end to increases in the levies.

It is resistance to the idea of galloping inequity in this costliest activity of our modern society. Obviously, real estate should be taxed for education. But it is by no means obvious to pensioners, retired persons, childless couples, spinsters, bachelors and aging property owners whose children are grown that they should impose limitless taxes on themselves for educational purposes. The education cost base needs to be related more closely to income.

The State Board of Education has been ordered to prepare a master plan for Ohio school districts in time for the 107th General Assembly. An Ohio Tax Study Commission has been created, to prepare recommendations for revising the Ohio tax structure. Its report is to be given to the 107th General Assembly.

Out of this systematic approach should come ideas on which Ohioans can agree. Issue No. 1 did have the effect of bringing the problem of how best to pay for education to statewide attention, though it did not offer a solution acceptable to a majority of voters.

The turndown at the polls settled nothing, except the fate of Issue No. 1.

It did not signify lack of interest in educational progress. It did not even signify that Ohioans never would favor a sales tax increase for the sake of increasing statewide support for school costs.

Let John Lindsay Decide

Before Republicans lay any claim to John V. Lindsay, mayor-elect of New York City, they would do well to find out how he feels about his political coloration at this stage of his ascending public career.

As a U.S. representative, Mr. Lindsay professed to be a Republican, though many Republicans in Congress and elsewhere insisted he was an impostor because he sided with the opposition.

His problem in this respect was not unique. It was shared by U.S. Sens. Javits and Keating of New York State, both nominal Republicans but b o t h too liberal for conservative Republicans.

It was shared, also, by New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, whose identity as a Republican has been blurred and distorted by views hateful to the party's conservative members.

In short, Rep. Lindsay was only one member of a coterie of officeholders whose Republicanism was held to be tainted, in the opinion of Republicans more firmly entrenched than the members of the coterie.

Against this background, he ran for mayor of New York City as an independent.

He organized a fusion ticket, divorcing himself from the Republican party in the election, just as he had divorced himself from it in the 1964 campaign, when he won re-election in his congressional district while refusing to support the presidential candidacy of Barry M. Goldwater.

He received no help in his campaign from any Republicans other than the members of the coterie of independents, chiefly Sen. Javits.

He did not seek a Republican identity while he was campaigning, so why should he seek it now? He owes the national organization nothing. It owes him nothing—no more than it owed New York Gov. Rockefeller in 1960 when he was booed at the GOP convention.

Whatever these independents are, they are not members of the GOP.

They are able to win elections in their own right, not as party standard bearers. Whatever ultimately proves to be the core of the Republican party, it is not going to be the Rockefellers, Javits and Lindsays.

To claim their victories at the polls as Republican triumphs is bad taste and worse logic.

Under the circumstances, it should be up to the mayor-elect of New York City to say what he thinks he is. When he looks at New Jersey, where an all-out Republican was swamped in a bid for the governorship last Tuesday, he will think a long time before identifying himself as anything but what he is—a personable young man who put together a winning combination and won election as mayor of New York City.

Cotton Corners

Dear Nephew? No one knows better than you how I feel about automobiles, the greatest thing since the horse. No doubt of it.

You have ridden in every contraption I ever owned. They have been the pride of my life, the passion of my youth, an aid and comfort in my declining years.

But by all that's combustible, I agree with a lawsuit pending in the Supreme Court of New York.

The automobile is not a sacred cow.

Human beings have rights as property owners that transcend the rights of human beings who drive automobiles — sometimes.

The New York suit is to determine when is "sometime." It seeks to establish that the rights of property owners must be weighed against the sacred-cow policy of letting automobiles go anywhere someone thinks they should go.

And who is "someone"?

Is it not cadre of highway engineers who spread out topographical maps and decide ex cathedra that the right-of-way should follow a certain line, irrespective of the wishes of property owners who would be wiped out?

If the owners resist, is not "someone" a group of legal beagles who invoke eminent domain to roll under the property owners' resistance?

In the New York case, the issue is over a two and one-half mile long federally financed expressway that would cost $109 million should force out 2,000 families and a number of industries employing 10,000 workers.

The argument is that the claimed benefit to the automotive cow would not offset the loss to families and industries already using the space the cow wants.

The people bringing the case say federal regulations require one claim to be set against the other; that they bar the sacred-cow policy in federal highway projects.

Whatever the law may be in this showdown, the economic principle clear. There is a point somewhere at which the sacred cow must be forbidden to trespass.

Even in India, there is beginning to be resentment of the right of eminent domain as applied to sacred cows. Maybe we are going to put sense into our approach to the problem here.

Your Aunt and I survived the local political lottery with no loss of blood.

We threw out some rascals and threw in a few replacements who may turn out to be worse. We threw out some heroes and replaced them with others who may turn out to be better. You casts your ballot and you takes your chance.

We had no ax to grind so lost no sleep over the election.

Both of us are well and trust you and yours are the same and becoming better day by day, just like Emile Coue used to say: "Every day, and in every way, I am becoming better and better." Remember him? Of course you don't. He died in 1926. You hadn't even started to get worse and worse in 1926.

Divorce rates in the U. S. have risen from 5 per cent to 8 per cent during the past year or so. There is no definite explanation for this—although many marriage counselors suspect that early marriage and stable marriage just do not go together.

Labor's Jet Set Gets Ready

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON

The brothers Reuther, who once bicycled across continents, now are launching a jet set for flights into some mighty spectacular horizons.

Victor Riesel

Their flying squads, made up of skilled organizers, sometimes will jet from labor crisis to labor crisis in the Occident and Orient. Or they will respond to aid calls from Asian unions. Or they will jet to lend a lobbying hand to allies in new African legislative halls.

Sometimes they will fly to "down under" continents to set up workers' education and vocational schools. Someday they will spread across the globe to run a worldwide strike in the automotive or some other metal industry.

LABOR'S JET SET has been a long time in the making. Call it the new global unionism. Call it the internationalizing of the labor movement. Whatever one does call it this new development will not sound as venturesome as do the following words of Victor Reuther:

"With the unprecedented resources of the free labor movement, in manpower, in experience, in leadership, in money, there can be no question that the new international structure will be built in time, that it will be effective and that it will inaugurate a dramatic new phase of labor union history."

Victor is director of the auto union's International Affairs Department, and it should never be said that he lives in the shadow of brother Walter. First that shadow moves too swiftly. Second, Victor has been as active on an intercontinental front as his older brother has been on mainland U.S.A.

In recent months, Victor Reuther's department has helped Ford workers in a Venezuelan strike; aided G.M. auto workers at a long governmental board hearing in Australia; set up a brain center in Tokyo for global research; and created special councils in Geneva to cover each major auto corporation now producing cars and parts simultaneously on several continents.

IT'S VICTOR'S theory that the international business and labor worlds now are so tightly knit that: "Sneezes in Milan or Tokyo or Sao Paulo can produce influenza in Dagenham (Eng.), Detroit or Cologne."

It's the Reuthers' theory, therefore, that unionism should be global. For this, there must be organizers. Such men are now being trained so they can cooperate with such organizations as the West Germany's metalworkers, the world's largest union.

Thus, the labor jet set. Some 50 of them have been selected by the United Auto Workers (UAW). Some are UAW staff members. Some are local union leaders.

They are being grouped into contingents of 15 to 20 international trainees. They'll go into four weeks of residential training here in Washington and in Detroit. Their specialities will be international trade union, social and economic problems.

The study cycles will include stints at American University and Wayne State University.

THE FIRST TRAINEE set has gone through courses here. They met on Oct. 18 and wound up Oct. 29. After briefings from labor's own international experts such as Victor Reuther and the continent-hopping Irving Brown, they made the rounds of embassies.

To get to all sides of the Curtain they were further briefed at the British, Nigerian, Swedish, Soviet, Yugoslav and Israeli embassies.

They are the first of what will become a special manpower pool. They will be ready to jet overseas on short notice. They are subject to call, says Reuther, for aid to foreign unions on "specific bargaining, vocational, educational, legislative, health, and union administrative

For this globe-jetting program, there appears to be ample funds. Interest on the UAW war chest money is specifically allocated for world activity. Until last September, the fund had $70 million dollars. Then it dipped to $35 million. Now it is being replenished.

It will keep labor's jet squads flying for a long time.

Great Society's 'Hangover'

By Raymond Moley

As the first session of the 89th Congress fades into history, it reminds me of a man in New York who had a big afternoon and night on the town. That man, who recklessly spent on his credit, realized when the bills came in that he was not only unable to remember what he had "bought," but was so loaded with debt that his obligations would haunt him for a long time to come.

The President has acclaimed the session as "the greatest in American history." But his use of the word "greatest" means the most expensive and the most reckless.

The New Yorker to whom I refer was one of the best paid and best known figures on Madison Ave. On the morning of the night out he had received a new and better employment contract with his company. He had a home with wife and kiddies in Westchester. He had charge accounts at the better stores, and his wallet was crammed with credit cards of all sorts.

THE SPENDING part of his day began at noon, when he entertained three associates in his company. After the familiar three martinis before lunch, his feeling of good will rose so high that in the early afternoon he proceeded to several stores and charged presents for his family and other relatives.

At 5:30 he met some friends at a bar for the usual two or three "for the road." Meanwhile the commuter train departed and he called home and said that "business" would keep him in town for the evening. Then he and his friends began the rounds. He ended by taking a room for the night at an expensive hotel. In addition to his outlays on credit, there was a certain amount of cash paid out for taxis and tips.

The next day, if his mind considered costs at all, he had not the faintest idea of the extent of his obligations. The bills would come staggering in for three or four weeks.

Congress at this 1965 session appropriated $119 billion, which was $12 billion more than in 1964, but this is only the official figure. Many welfare programs that were adopted are of the open-end variety. Some of the legislation imposes obligations of an indeterminate nature for years to come. Some involve back-door spending, in which money will be drawn from the Treasury without annual appropriation.

IN THE FINAL CATCHALL supplemental money measures approved just prior to adjournment, Congress acted to provide advance funding for the urban renewal program. No one knows what the future costs of hospital and nursing-home care will be, for no one can predict how many will claim the benefits.

The costs of education are unknown, for no one knows how many individuals and institutions will claim grants under a rather fuzzy authorization.

What we do know is that federal welfare expenditures leaped in the 10 years from 1955 to 1965 from $13 billion to $33 billion, and under the laws passed this year the welfare costs will probably go up to around $45 billion by 1970. This comes very close to the outlays for the military and for foreign aid.

While in this country we have been moving into the welfare state, following the United Kingdom in the early years after World War II, the United Kingdom is now discovering a serious drift in public opinion in the other direction. A poll by the British Institute of Public Affairs shows that the costly social-service programs over there are rapidly losing their popularity. In the United Kingdom two-fifths of the government's revenue goes to these services.

THE PRESENT Labor government now finds that these outlays are impairing the nation's currency in foreign markets. This in any nation measures the ultimate reckoning. At the recent British Labor party's conference at Blackpool the more conservative elements in the dominant party sharply rebuffed the orthodox socialists.

This is in contrast with the United States, where the liberal element overwhelmingly swept the elections in 1964. At this moment in the United States government welfare is at a high tide. We are enjoying our spree now. The inevitable bills will come in later.

Forsaken Ideals

By David Lawrence

Voters Should Study Issues

Racial and religious prejudices, bloc voting, political vengefulness, social and economic grievances dominated the voting in the several city and state elections on Tuesday throughout the country. The ideal of democracy — that the best man should receive the support of the majority of the voters and that basic principles should be given preference over personalities — was forsaken again, just as it has been many times in the past.

New York City's election was salutary only in a negative sense — that the "bosses" and the political machine suffered a severe defeat. Party lines were brushed aside. In fact, the two candidates of Republican background — Lindsay and Buckley — together received almost 60 per cent of the total vote. President Johnson's endorsement of the Democratic nominee was ignored by a substantial number of Democrats, who joined with the Republicans to help elect the fusion ticket headed by Lindsay.

New York City had as its three major candidates individuals who happen to be Jewish, Roman Catholic and Protestant, respectively. Many of the Jews voted for Beame. Many of the Catholics, traditionally Democratic, voted for Buckley, especially in the Irish and Italian districts. Many of the Protestants, including Democrats who shifted from their party, voted for Lindsay. So religious prejudices worked as an expression of sentiment on all sides.

IN CLEVELAND a Negro was a candidate for mayor for the first time, and he nearly won in a four-way race in which he carried overwhelmingly the city's Negro vote. Bloc-voting by both whites and Negroes was apparent in the final returns.

In Boston, where civil rights groups have conducted an intensive crusade against the city school board, which was committed to fight bus transportation of children as a means of achieving "racial balance" in public school attendance, the Negro side of the argument lost. Thus, in a large Northern city some of the same prejudices which have been regarded as purely a Southern characteristic came to the surface in a substantial way at the polls.

So it's difficult to find a political pattern based on party differences or even on personal qualifications as the principal influence in the various elections.

There may come a time when some national organization will be formed, not to induce citizens to vote for one individual or party ticket but to persuade them to learn something about basic issues and the fitness of particular individuals to serve in public office. Such a background is lacking today, and elections often turn on which party can pick candidates who will cater to social, religious, racial or even economic prejudices.

THE NEW YORK Mayoralty contest will, of course, be analyzed by the politicians across the country to determine whether a national trend is developing that could affect the congressional elections of 1966 and the presidential campaign of 1968. Naturally, Lindsay, who has served for seven years in the national House of Representatives gets into the limelight now as a potential Republican nominee for the presidency in future contests. He has ben known as a liberal. He was opposed energetically during the campaign by Buckley, a conservative Republican. But the net effect of the Buckley effort was to draw votes away from both the Democratic and Republican tickets and make it impossible for any of the three candidates to win by a majority. Lindsay is, therefore, a winner only by a plurality.

Does the Lindsay victory mean that he has vindicated the anti-Goldwater cause and that liberal Republicanism now is on top? The answer is that there is never such a thing as a victory between factions in any political party which really wants to win elections. Obviously many Republicans who supported Goldwater voted for Lindsay. They reasoned that it was better to punish the city hall machine of the Democrats than it was to get political revenge.

WHAT THE REPUBLICANS ned in 1968 is a presidential candidate who can gain the support of Democrats who are dissatisfied with the Johnson administration and hold also Republicans who are willing to allow their resentments over the 1964 campaign to be submerged in the public interst. For some of the same issues which were present throughout the country in influencing the elections this week are bound to be decisive factors in the 1966 as well as 1968 national campaigns.

It is resistance to the idea of galloping inequity in this costliest activity of our modern society. Obviously, real estate should be taxed for education. But it is by no means obvious to pensioners, retired persons, childless couples, spinsters, bachelors and aging property owners whose children are grown that they should impose limitless taxes on themselves for educational purposes. The education cost base needs to be related more closely to income.

The State Board of Education has been ordered to prepare a master plan for Ohio school districts in time for the 107th General Assembly. An Ohio Tax Study Commission has been created, to prepare recommendations for revising the Ohio tax structure. Its report is to be given to the 107th General Assembly.

Out of this systematic approach should come ideas on which Ohioans can agree. Issue No. 1 did have the effect of bringing the problem of how best to pay for education to statewide attention, though it did not offer a solution acceptable to a majority of voters.

The turndown at the polls settled nothing, except the fate of Issue No. 1.

It did not signify lack of interest in educational progress. It did not even signify that Ohioans never would favor a sales tax increase for the sake of increasing statewide support for school costs.

Let John Lindsay Decide

Before Republicans lay any claim to John V. Lindsay, mayor-elect of New York City, they would do well to find out how he feels about his political coloration at this stage of his ascending public career.

As a U.S. representative, Mr. Lindsay professed to be a Republican, though many Republicans in Congress and elsewhere insisted he was an impostor because he sided with the opposition.

His problem in this respect was not unique. It was shared by U.S. Sens. Javits and Keating of New York State, both nominal Republicans but both too liberal for conservative Republicans.

It was shared, also, by New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, whose identity as a Republican has been blurred and distorted by views hateful to the party's conservative members.

In short, Rep. Lindsay was only one member of a coterie of officeholders whose Republicanism was held to be tainted, in the opinion of Republicans more firmly entrenched than the members of the coterie.

Against this background, he ran for mayor of New York City as an independent.

He organized a fusion ticket, divorcing himself from the Republican party in the election, just as he had divorced himself from it in the 1964 campaign, when he won re-election in his congressional district while refusing to support the presidential candidacy of Barry M. Goldwater.

He received no help in his campaign from any Republicans other than the members of the coterie of independents, chiefly Sen. Javits.

He did not seek a Republican identity while he was campaigning, so why should he seek it now? He owes the national organization nothing. It owes him nothing—no more than it owed New York Gov. Rockefeller in 1960 when he was booed at the GOP convention.

Whatever these independents are, they are not members of the GOP.

They are able to win elections in their own right, not as party standard bearers. Whatever ultimately proves to be the core of the Republican party, it is not going to be the Rockefellers, Javits and Lindsays.

To claim their victories at the polls as Republican triumphs is bad taste and worse logic.

Under the circumstances, it should be up to the mayor-elect of New York City to say what he thinks he is. When he looks at New Jersey, where an all-out Republican was swamped in a bid for the governorship last Tuesday, he will think a long time before identifying himself as anything but what he is—a personable young man who put together a winning combination and won election as mayor of New York City.

Cotton Corners

Dear Nephew? No one knows better than you how I feel about automobiles, the greatest thing since the horse. No doubt of it.

You have ridden in every contraption I ever owned. They have been the pride of my life, the passion of my youth, an aid and comfort in my declining years.

But by all that's combustible, I agree with a lawsuit pending in the Supreme Court of New York.

The automobile is not a sacred cow.

Human beings have rights as property owners that transcend the rights of human beings who drive automobiles — sometimes.

The New York suit is to determine when is "sometime." It seeks to establish that the rights of property owners must be weighed against the sacred-cow policy of letting automobiles go anywhere someone thinks they should go.

And who is "someone"?

Is it not cadre of highway engineers who spread out topographical maps and decide ex cathedra that the right-of-way should follow a certain line, irrespective of the wishes of property owners who would be wiped out?

If the owners resist, is not "someone" a group of legal beagles who invoke eminent domain to roll under the property owners' resistance?

In the New York case, the issue is over a two and one-half mile long federally financed expressway that would cost $109 million should force out 2,000 families and a number of industries employing 10,000 workers.

The argument is that the claimed benefit to the automotive cow would not offset the loss to families and industries already using the space the cow wants.

The people bringing the case say federal regulations require one claim to be set against the other; that they bar the sacred-cow policy in federal highway projects.

Whatever the law may be in this showdown, the economic principle clear. There is a point somewhere at which the sacred cow must be forbidden to trespass.

Even in India, there is beginning to be resentment of the right of eminent domain as applied to sacred cows. Maybe we are going to put sense into our approach to the problem here.

Your Aunt and I survived the local political lottery with no loss of blood.

We threw out some rascals and threw in a few replacements who may turn out to be worse. We threw out some heroes and replaced them with others who may turn out to be better. You casts your ballot and you takes your chance.

We had no ax to grind so lost no sleep over the election.

Both of us are well and trust you and yours are the same and becoming better day by day, just like Emile Coue used to say: "Every day, and in every way, I am becoming better and better." Remember him? Of course you don't. He died in 1926. You hadn't even started to get worse and worse in 1926.

Odd Facts

If you have been prone to believe that the independent inventor is extinct, consider his achievements during the last 50 years — air-conditioning; automatic transmissions, ball point pens; wide-vision movies; cotton picker; cyclotron; electron microscope; gyro compass; color photography; magnetic recording; power steering; safety razor; self-winding wristwatches; zippers; helicopter, and on and on.

Divorce rates in the U. S. have risen from 5 per cent to 8 per cent during the past year or so. There is no definite explanation for this—although many marriage counselors suspect that early marriage and stable marriage just do not go together.

Labor's Jet Set Gets Ready

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON

The brothers Reuther, who once bicycled across continents, now are launching a jet set for flights into some mighty spectacular horizons.

Victor Riesel

Their flying squads, made up of skilled organizers, sometimes will jet from labor crisis to labor crisis in the Occident and Orient. Or they will respond to aid calls from Asian unions. Or they will jet to lend a lobbying hand to allies in new African legislative halls.

Sometimes they will fly to "down under" continents to set up workers' education and vocational schools. Someday they will spread across the globe to run a worldwide strike in the automotive or some other metal industry.

LABOR'S JET SET has been a long time in the making. Call it the new global unionism. Call it the internationalizing of the labor movement. Whatever one does call it this new development will not sound as venturesome as do the following words of Victor Reuther:

"With the unprecedented resources of the free labor movement, in manpower, in experience, in leadership, in money, there can be no question that the new international structure will be built in time, that it will be effective and that it will inaugurate a dramatic new phase of labor union history."

Victor is director of the auto union's International Affairs Department, and it should never be said that he lives in the shadow of brother Walter. First that shadow moves too swiftly. Second, Victor has been as active on an intercontinental front as his older brother has been on mainland U.S.A.

In recent months, Victor Reuther's department has helped Ford workers in a Venezuelan strike; aided G.M. auto workers at a long governmental board hearing in Australia; set up a brain center in Tokyo for global research; and created special councils in Geneva to cover each major auto corporation now producing cars and parts simultaneously on several continents.

IT'S VICTOR'S theory that the international business and labor worlds now are so tightly knit that: "Sneezes in Milan or Tokyo or Sao Paulo can produce influenza in Dagenham (Eng.), Detroit or Cologne."

It's the Reuthers' theory, therefore, that unionism should be global. For this, there must be organizers. Such men are now being trained so they can cooperate with such organizations as the West Germany's metalworkers, the world's largest union.

Thus, the labor jet set. Some 50 of them have been selected by the United Auto Workers (UAW). Some are UAW staff members. Some are local union leaders.

They are being grouped into contingents of 15 to 20 international trainees. They'll go into four weeks of residential training here in Washington and in Detroit. Their specialities will be international trade union, social and economic problems.

The study cycles will include stints at American University and Wayne State University.

THE FIRST TRAINEE set has gone through courses here. They met on Oct. 18 and wound up Oct. 29. After briefings from labor's own international experts such as Victor Reuther and the continent-hopping Irving Brown, they made the rounds of embassies.

To get to all sides of the Curtain they were further briefed at the British, Nigerian, Swedish, Soviet, Yugoslav and Israeli embassies.

They are the first of what will become a special manpower pool. They will be ready to jet overseas on short notice. They are subject to call, says Reuther, for aid to foreign unions on "specific bargaining, vocational, educational, legislative, health, and union administrative

For this globe-jetting program, there appears to be ample funds. Interest on the UAW war chest money is specifically allocated for world activity. Until last September, the fund had $70 million dollars. Then it dipped to $35 million. Now it is being replenished.

It will keep labor's jet squads flying for a long time.

Great Society's 'Hangover'

By Raymond Moley

As the first session of the 89th Congress fades into history, it reminds me of a man in New York who had a big afternoon and night on the town. That man, who recklessly spent on his credit, realized when the bills came in that he was not only unable to remember what he had "bought," but was so loaded with debt that his obligations would haunt him for a long time to come.

The President has acclaimed the session as "the greatest in American history." But his use of the word "greatest" means the most expensive and the most reckless.

The New Yorker to whom I refer was one of the best paid and best known figures on Madison Ave. On the morning of the night out he had received a new and better employment contract with his company. He had a home with wife and kiddies in Westchester. He had charge accounts at the better stores, and his wallet was crammed with credit cards of all sorts.

THE SPENDING part of his day began at noon, when he entertained three associates in his company. After the familiar three martinis before lunch, his feeling of good will rose so high that in the early afternoon he proceeded to several stores and charged presents for his family and other relatives.

At 5:30 he met some friends at a bar for the usual two or three "for the road." Meanwhile the commuter train departed and he called home and said that "business" would keep him in town for the evening. Then he and his friends began the rounds. He ended by taking a room for the night at an expensive hotel. In addition to his outlays on credit, there was a certain amount of cash paid out for taxis and tips.

The next day, if his mind considered costs at all, he had not the faintest idea of the extent of his obligations. The bills would come staggering in for three or four weeks.

Congress at this 1965 session appropriated $119 billion, which was $12 billion more than in 1964, but this is only the official figure. Many welfare programs that were adopted are of the open-end variety. Some of the legislation imposes obligations of an indeterminate nature for years to come. Some involve back-door spending, in which money will be drawn from the Treasury without annual appropriation.

IN THE FINAL CATCHALL supplemental money measures approved just prior to adjournment, Congress acted to provide advance funding for the urban renewal program. No one knows what the future costs of hospital and nursing-home care will be, for no one can predict how many will claim the benefits.

The costs of education are unknown, for no one knows how many individuals and institutions will claim grants under a rather fuzzy authorization.

What we do know is that federal welfare expenditures leaped in the 10 years from 1955 to 1965 from $13 billion to $33 billion, and under the laws passed this year the welfare costs will probably go up to around $45 billion by 1970. This comes very close to the outlays for the military and for foreign aid.

While in this country we have been moving into the welfare state, following the United Kingdom in the early years after World War II, the United Kingdom is now discovering a serious drift in public opinion in the other direction. A poll by the British Institute of Public Affairs shows that the costly social-service programs over there are rapidly losing their popularity. In the United Kingdom two-fifths of the government's revenue goes to these services.

THE PRESENT Labor government now finds that these outlays are impairing the nation's currency in foreign markets. This in any nation measures the ultimate reckoning. At the recent British Labor party's conference at Blackpool the more conservative elements in the dominant party sharply rebuffed the orthodox socialists.

This is in contrast with the United States, where the liberal element overwhelmingly swept the elections in 1964. At this moment in the United States government welfare is at a high tide. We are enjoying our spree now. The inevitable bills will come in later.

Forsaken Ideals

By David Lawrence

Voters Should Study Issues

Racial and religious prejudices, bloc voting, political vengefulness, social and economic grievances dominated the voting in the several city and state elections on Tuesday throughout the country. The ideal of democracy — that the best man should receive the support of the majority of the voters and that basic principles should be given preference over personalities — was forsaken again, just as it has been many times in the past.

New York City's election was salutary only in a negative sense — that the "bosses" and the political machine suffered a severe defeat. Party lines were brushed aside. In fact, the two candidates of Republican background — Lindsay and Buckley — together received almost 60 per cent of the total vote. President Johnson's endorsement of the Democratic nominee was ignored by a substantial number of Democrats, who joined with the Republicans to help elect the fusion ticket headed by Lindsay.

New York City had as its three major candidates individuals who happen to be Jewish, Roman Catholic and Protestant, respectively. Many of the Jews voted for Beame. Many of the Catholics, traditionally Democratic, voted for Buckley, especially in the Irish and Italian districts. Many of the Protestants, including Democrats who shifted from their party, voted for Lindsay. So religious prejudices worked as an expression of sentiment on all sides.

IN CLEVELAND a Negro was a candidate for mayor for the first time, and he nearly won in a four-way race in which he carried overwhelmingly the city's Negro vote. Bloc-voting by both whites and Negroes was apparent in the final returns.

In Boston, where civil rights groups have conducted an intensive crusade against the city school board, which was committed to fight bus transportation of children as a means of achieving "racial balance" in public school attendance, the Negro side of the argument lost. Thus, in a large Northern city some of the same prejudices which have been regarded as purely a Southern characteristic came to the surface in a substantial way at the polls.

So it's difficult to find a political pattern based on party differences or even on personal qualifications as the principal influence in the various elections.

There may come a time when some national organization will be formed, not to induce citizens to vote for one individual or party ticket but to persuade them to learn something about basic issues and the fitness of particular individuals to serve in public office. Such a background is lacking today, and elections often turn on which party can pick candidates who will cater to social, religious, racial or even economic prejudices.

THE NEW YORK Mayoralty contest will, of course, be analyzed by the politicians across the country to determine whether a national trend is developing that could affect the congressional elections of 1966 and the presidential campaign of 1968. Naturally, Lindsay, who has served for seven years in the national House of Representatives gets into the limelight now as a potential Republican nominee for the presidency in future contests. He has ben known as a liberal. He was opposed energetically during the campaign by Buckley, a conservative Republican. But the net effect of the Buckley effort was to draw votes away from both the Democratic and Republican tickets and make it impossible for any of the three candidates to win by a majority. Lindsay is, therefore, a winner only by a plurality.

Does the Lindsay victory mean that he has vindicated the anti-Goldwater cause and that liberal Republicanism now is on top? The answer is that there is never such a thing as a victory between factions in any political party which really wants to win elections. Obviously many Republicans who supported Goldwater voted for Lindsay. They reasoned that it was better to punish the city hall machine of the Democrats than it was to get political revenge.

WHAT THE REPUBLICANS ned in 1968 is a presidential candidate who can gain the support of Democrats who are dissatisfied with the Johnson administration and hold also Republicans who are willing to allow their resentments over the 1964 campaign to be submerged in the public interst. For some of the same issues which were present throughout the country in influencing the elections this week are bound to be decisive factors in the 1966 as well as 1968 national campaigns.

Hit Ground At 90 MPH

Sky Diver In Hospital Recalls His Near-Tragedy

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP) — "I'm lucky to be alive," said sky diver Robert Holtz looking up from a special hospital bed.

Holtz has lived to tell how he hurtled through space and about those last desperate 20 seconds before he struck the ground at an estimated 90-miles-an-hour.

Holtz, a 26-year-old bachelor, had gone up in a small plane on Sept. 8 to perform a feat he loved and had done many times —diving 2,000 feet through space and then deploying his parachute and drifting down to earth.

The first part of Holtz's trip went according to plan, but with 3,000 feet left to go, his main chute failed to open. Seconds later he pulled the cord on his reserve chute, but the chute got caught on his altimeter and began to tear. Then the lines from both chutes began tangling with each other and it looked hopeless.

"I didn't have time to think," Holtz said of those agonizing seconds. "I was too busy trying to untangle the lines. I thought to myself 'Oh, my God. I'm as good as dead,' and that's all I remember."

Luckily, the partially deployed chutes slowed his fall or he would have hit the ground at 120 m.p.h. He landed in a rain-soaked field which cushioned his fall.

He was rushed to Massillon City Hospital where for five days he lay unconscious and in critical condition with six spinal fractures and a broken ankle.

Now listed in fair condition, Holtz is looking forward—probably in December—to being able to sit up in bed for the first time.

His brush with death hasn't turned him against sky diving. "I would like to jump again if they say I heal strongly enough," said the plucky rubber worker.

Revolutionary New Commando XT Is Triple Guaranteed -- but YOU Be the Judge of Its Pulling Power

Try a pair of Gates Commando XT mud and snow tires for 30 days. If you don't agree they outpull (in deep snow, mud or sand) any other traction tire you've ever used on your car, return them and we'll refund the full purchase price and remount your trade-in tires without charge!

TUBELESS
Priced From $22.45

Unique Tread Uses "Cog Train" Principle-- Gives up to 144% Greater Traction

The unique tread pattern (patents pending) of the Commando XT has four separate rows of continuous, offset blocks. The voids in between these are wedge shaped. As the tire revolves, the continuous "wedging" action of these voids packs snow and mud into solid rows of cog-like blocks. (See drawing.) The tire pushes against these solid blocks for "geared-in" extra go-power and extra traction — tread elements working in powerful tandem with offset snow blocks in much the same way a cog train pushes against the special "teeth" of the cog rail.

Sky Diver In Hospital Recalls His Near-Tragedy

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP) — "I'm lucky to be alive," said sky diver Robert Holtz looking up from a special hospital bed.

Holtz has lived to tell how he hurtled through space and about those last desperate 20 seconds before he struck the ground at an estimated 90-miles-an-hour.

Holtz, a 26-year-old bachelor, had gone up in a small plane on Sept. 8 to perform a feat he loved and had done many times —diving 2,000 feet through space and then deploying his parachute and drifting down to earth.

The first part of Holtz's trip went according to plan, but with 3,000 feet left to go, his main chute failed to open. Seconds later he pulled the cord on his reserve chute, but the chute got caught on his altimeter and began to tear. Then the lines from both chutes began tangling with each other and it looked hopeless.

"I didn't have time to think," Holtz said of those agonizing seconds. "I was too busy trying to untangle the lines. I thought to myself 'Oh, my God. I'm as good as dead,' and that's all I remember."

Luckily, the partially deployed chutes slowed his fall or he would have hit the ground at 120 m.p.h. He landed in a rain-soaked field which cushioned his fall.

He was rushed to Massillon City Hospital where for five days he lay unconscious and in critical condition with six spinal fractures and a broken ankle.

Now listed in fair condition, Holtz is looking forward—probably in December—to being able to sit up in bed for the first time.

His brush with death hasn't turned him against sky diving. "I would like to jump again if they say I heal strongly enough," said the plucky rubber worker.

Gates Commando XT

Revolutionary New Commando XT Is Triple Guaranteed -- but YOU Be the Judge of Its Pulling Power

Try a pair of Gates Commando XT mud and snow tires for 30 days. If you don't agree they outpull (in deep snow, mud or sand) any other traction tire you've ever used on your car, return them and we'll refund the full purchase price and remount your trade-in tires without charge!

TUBELESS

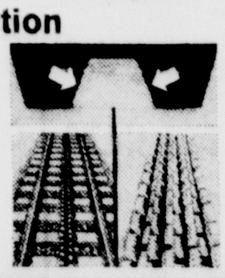
Unique Tread Uses "Cog Train" Principle-- Gives up to 144% Greater Traction



The unique tread pattern (patents pending) of the Commando XT has four separate rows of continuous, offset blocks. The voids in between these are wedge shaped. As the tire revolves, the continuous "wedging" action of these voids packs snow and mud into solid rows of cog-like blocks. (See drawing) The tire pushes against these solid blocks for "geared-in" extra go-power and extra traction—tread elements working in powerful tandem with offset snow blocks in much the same way a cog train pushes against the special "teeth" of the cog rail.

Intends 'To See All Of It'

Princess Margaret Glad U.S. Visit Now Reality

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Britain's Princess Margaret, a woman with a mind of her own, makes it clear she intends to see all of it — the United States — not just the high-society side.

"I've longed to come to this country for ages," she said on her arrival from London Thursday, "and I'm so glad it's become a reality."

Accompanied by her husband, the Earl of Snowdon, she said at her first news conference: "We both look forward to seeing as much as we can of the United States and meeting all people in all walks of life."

A London-style peasoup fog had socked in San Francisco International Airport but cleared before their arrival. The royal pair had a glittering view of hilly San Francisco by night.

"Hey, princess," a photographer shouted as Margaret shook hands in the reception line, "How about turning around for a picture?"

The princess, sixth in line to Britain's throne, made a full about-face to pose. She wore the same beige tweed wool coat and yellow silk dress in which she traveled and her only jewelry was a double row of pearls, matching earrings and a gold brooch pinned to a shoulder.

After the press reception, although it was 14 hours since she'd left London, Margaret agreed to tour the club's upper floors including areas usually barred to women and non-members.

As a souvenir the club gave the princess a silver model of a black cat named "Tombstone." The cat, symbol of the club, was the work of sculptor Benjamin Bufano, a member.

After meeting Mayor John F. Shelley at City Hall and attending a benefit luncheon, the princess and her husband dine tonight at the Telegraph Hill home of Whitney Warren, who made a fortune in California ranching.

Moore Defeated By Millersburg Teacher In Vote

Clark E. Welch, a sixth-grade teacher at Millersburg, was named president - elect of the East Central Ohio Teachers Association, at the representation assembly preceding the meeting of more than 6,000 teachers from six counties today in Canton.

Welch defeated Austen B. Moore, East Liverpool High School English instructor and president of the ELTA, in the balloting to determine who will head the organization in 1967.

Miss Eileen McCullough, chemistry, physics and math teacher at Lisbon High School, was named recording secretary, succeeding Mrs. Sara Knight of Salem.

Charles G. Andrews, assistant principal at Canton Lincoln High School, was re-elected as the ECOTA's representative on the Ohio Education Association's executive committee.

The association also endorsed Kenneth Kate, assistant principal at Canton McKinley, for OEA president.

G. R. Bowers of Canton took over as president of the organization succeeding Wilbur Berkey of Smithville. The association embraces Columbiana, Stark, Tuscarawas, Wayne, Holmes and Carroll Counties.

Man Placed On Probation

NEW CUMBERLAND — Donald E. Anderson of Weirton, charged with the breaking and entering of the People's Restaurant in Weirton last Nov. 26, received a suspended sentence of 1 to 10 years in Moundsville Penitentiary during Hancock County Circuit Court proceedings here Thursday.

Judge Ralph Pryor then placed the defendant on five years' probation. Anderson had changed an earlier plea of "not guilty" to "guilty".

In another case, Thomas E. Dennis of Imperial, Pa., was ordered returned to Moundsville to complete a prior sentence after the state waived charges of breaking and entering at the Club Sands at Kings Creek on May 28.

The trial of Raymond Fullum and his wife, Mary Ann, both of Weirton, was continued until Dec. 10 by Judge Pryor upon the request of counsel. The couple was arrested June 24 at the County Cottage truck stop on the Cove Hill Rd., deputies confiscating some 11,000 "pep pills" at that time.

A Dec. 10 trial date also has been set for Austin Hill of Pughtown, who has pleaded not guilty to a charge of felonious assault on George Hill June 24.

County OK's Travel Funds

LISBON — Travel expenses for county employes were approved by the Columbiana County commissioners Thursday at the Courthouse.

The commissioners approved a $35 travel allowance for Robert Bycroft, County Welfare Department director, to attend a conference on retarded children Thursday through Saturday in Columbus. An additional $200 was granted for eight employes of the Welfare Department to attend the session.

Also approved was a travel allowance of $125 for Joseph Reed, Walter McCoy and Ruth Hughes of the Soldiers Relief Commission to attend a service officers' conference and school Nov. 17-19 in Columbus.

A $6 travel allowance was approved for Kenneth Bell, County Auditor, to attend the Eastern Ohio County Auditors Association meeting Wednesday in Smithville.

Commissioners also approved the lone bid to supply an administrative docket for Probate Court. The bid of $205 came from the Heer Printing Co. of Columbus.

The commissioners obtained deed to land on Wayne Township Road 776 in the northeast quarter of section 23 by F. J. Andreatta and Sam Cosma who represent Commercial Minerals.

The transaction is the first step in the county's obtaining property to replace a short bridge with a culvert at the site. Obtaining the mineral rights involved a consideration of $1.

Also approved was a work agreement on two driveways on Hanover Township Roads 750 and 837 of section 13 by David and Anna Jenkins.

Jungle Area Scanned For Missing Airplane

PANAMA (AP)—Rescue parties searching for a missing Argentine air force plane set out today for a spot in the Costa Rican jungle where a helicopter pilot reported signs of an air crash.

The plane, a DC4 carrying 55 Argentine military cadets, 5 officers and 9 crewmen, disappeared Wednesday on a flight from the Canal Zone to the United States.

The helicopter, one of 36 aircraft, taking part in the search, reported that trees in the jungle 25 miles east of San Jose, Costa Rica, appeared to have been felled by a crashing plane.

The missing plane had reported one engine on fire. It was one of two DC4s that took off from the Canal Zone for a scheduled refueling stop in San Salvador.

Notifies President

Mell G. Underwood, 73, To Retire As U.S. Judge

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Mell G. Underwood, U. S. district judge here for nearly 30 years, notified President Johnson today he is retiring Dec. 31 to become a part-time senior judge.

He told the President he will be 74 soon and that with his long service he has already served nine years over the retirement age. He has suffered from arthritis in recent years.

The jovial judge from New Lexington in Perry County, where he has lived for many years, liked to call himself the "country boy from the hills." he had been in posts of public service for 47 years.

His decision was related to newsmen at a session in his office in the federal building here Friday morning.

He told newsmen he is still puzzled by the abortive move by several federal circuit court judges who said he "leaked" a story to northern Ohio newspapers last April that they were demanding his retirement.

When that story appear, the judge said he had been ready to retire but changed his mind and dared the judges to either "come out in the open or go to hell." The judges chose silence.

Underwood will keep his office in the federal building and continue to try cases as a senior judge. But his retirement will allow the President to appoint a new U. S. judge for the three-judge Southern Ohio District which includes Columbus, Dayton and Cincinnati.

In his letter to the President, Judge Underwood cited the "congestion of the docket of this district which comprises 30 counties." He said that "for several years past the work has been too heavy for one judge to undertake the responsibilities of administering the work of this office."

As a senior judge, he will receive the same salary he gets now or would get in full retirement, $30,000 a year.

Born on his parents' farm in Perry County, Underwood worked in a New Lexington brick and tile plant to earn money for his education and to go to law school at Ohio State University.

In 1917 he was the youngest man ever elected Perry County prosecutor. In 1932 he became the youngest man in Congress, winning election in the old 11th District. He was sworn in as federal judge April 11, 1936.

Union, Bliss Talks Pushed

Contract negotiations between the Mackintosh - Hemphill Division of the E. W. Bliss Co. and United Steelworkers Locals 1269 and 1886 resumed today after recessing over Wednesday and Thursday.

The company and unions are trying to reach an agreement on a contract to replace one that expired Oct. 31. Employes are working on a 10-day extension of the old contract which will expire Nov. 12. After that date, the unions will remain on the job on a day-to-day basis.

Raymond F. Crawford, manager of personnel and industrial relations at the Pittsburgh office of Bliss, said the negotiations have been going smoothly, "but no definite conclusions have been made."

The disagreement lies outside the basic framework of the general contract signed by the USW in September, he said.

According to Crawford, "most of the difficulty has been over the incentive program which is being requested. When this problem is settled, a contract settlement may follow."

Local 1269, which has 325 members, is threatening a walkout at the Midland division if contract agreements are not reached. Local 1886 at the South Side plant in Pittsburgh is threatening similar action.

His decision was related to newsmen at a session in his office in the federal building here Friday morning.

He told newsmen he is still puzzled by the abortive move by several federal circuit court judges who said he "leaked" a story to northern Ohio newspapers last April that they were demanding his retirement.

When that story appear, the judge said he had been ready to retire but changed his mind and dared the judges to either "come out in the open or go to hell." The judges chose silence.

Underwood will keep his office in the federal building and continue to try cases as a senior judge. But his retirement will allow the President to appoint a new U. S. judge for the three-judge Southern Ohio District which includes Columbus, Dayton and Cincinnati.

In his letter to the President, Judge Underwood cited the "congestion of the docket of this district which comprises 30 counties." He said that "for several years past the work has been too heavy for one judge to undertake the responsibilities of administering the work of this office."

As a senior judge, he will receive the same salary he gets now or would get in full retirement, $30,000 a year.

Born on his parents' farm in Perry County, Underwood worked in a New Lexington brick and tile plant to earn money for his education and to go to law school at Ohio State University.

In 1917 he was the youngest man ever elected Perry County prosecutor. In 1932 he became the youngest man in Congress, winning election in the old 11th District. He was sworn in as federal judge April 11, 1936.

Intends 'To See All Of It'

Princess Margaret Glad U.S. Visit Now Reality

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Britain's Princess Margaret, a woman with a mind of her own, makes it clear she intends to see all of it — the United States — not just the high-society side.

"I've longed to come to this country for ages," she said on her arrival from London Thursday, "and I'm so glad it's become a reality."

Accompanied by her husband, the Earl of Snowdon, she said at her first news conference: "We both look forward to seeing as much as we can of the United States and meeting all people in all walks of life."

Her husband, photographer Antony Armstrong-Jones before their marriage, stood in the background at the conference in the San Francisco Press Club.

A London-style peasoup fog had socked in San Francisco International Airport but cleared before their arrival. The royal pair had a glittering view of hilly San Francisco by night.

"Hey, princess," a photographer shouted as Margaret shook hands in the reception line, "How about turning around for a picture?"

The princess, sixth in line to Britain's throne, made a full about-face to pose. She wore the same beige tweed wool coat and yellow silk dress in which she traveled and her only jewelry was a double row of pearls, matching earrings and a gold brooch pinned to a shoulder.

After the press reception, although it was 14 hours since she'd left London, Margaret agreed to tour the club's upper floors including areas usually barred to women and non-members.

As a souvenir the club gave the princess a silver model of a black cat named "Tombstone." The cat, symbol of the club, was the work of sculptor Benjamin Bufano, a member.

After meeting Mayor John F. Shelley at City Hall and attending a benefit luncheon, the princess and her husband dine tonight at the Telegraph Hill home of Whitney Warren, who made a fortune in California ranching.

Moore Defeated By Millersburg Teacher In Vote

Clark E. Welch, a sixth-grade teacher at Millersburg, was named president - elect of the East Central Ohio Teachers Association, at the representation assembly preceding the meeting of more than 6,000 teachers from six counties today in Canton.

Welch defeated Austen B. Moore, East Liverpool High School English instructor and president of the ELTA, in the balloting to determine who will head the organization in 1967.

Miss Eileen McCullough, chemistry, physics and math teacher at Lisbon High School, was named recording secretary, succeeding Mrs. Sara Knight of Salem.

Charles G. Andrews, assistant principal at Canton Lincoln High School, was re-elected as the ECOTA's representative on the Ohio Education Association's executive committee.

The association also endorsed Kenneth Kate, assistant principal at Canton McKinley, for OEA president.

G. R. Bowers of Canton took over as president of the organization succeeding Wilbur Berkey of Smithville. The association embraces Columbiana, Stark, Tuscarawas, Wayne, Holmes and Carroll Counties.

County OK's Travel Funds

LISBON — Travel expenses for county employes were approved by the Columbiana County commissioners Thursday at the Courthouse.

The commissioners approved a $35 travel allowance for Robert Bycroft, County Welfare Department director, to attend a conference on retarded children Thursday through Saturday in Columbus. An additional $200 was granted for eight employes of the Welfare Department to attend the session.

Also approved was a travel allowance of $125 for Joseph Reed, Walter McCoy and Ruth Hughes of the Soldiers Relief Commission to attend a service officers' conference and school Nov. 17-19 in Columbus.

A $6 travel allowance was approved for Kenneth Bell, County Auditor, to attend the Eastern Ohio County Auditors Association meeting Wednesday in Smithville.

Commissioners also approved the lone bid to supply an administrative docket for Probate Court. The bid of $205 came from the Heer Printing Co. of Columbus.

The commissioners obtained deed to land on Wayne Township Road 776 in the northeast quarter of section 23 by F. J. Andreatta and Sam Cosma who represent Commercial Minerals.

The transaction is the first step in the county's obtaining property to replace a short bridge with a culvert at the site. Obtaining the mineral rights involved a consideration of $1.

Also approved was a work agreement on two driveways on Hanover Township Roads 750 and 837 of section 13 by David and Anna Jenkins.

Union, Bliss Talks Pushed

Contract negotiations between the Mackintosh - Hemphill Division of the E. W. Bliss Co. and United Steelworkers Locals 1269 and 1886 resumed today after recessing over Wednesday and Thursday.

The company and unions are trying to reach an agreement on a contract to replace one that expired Oct. 31. Employes are working on a 10-day extension of the old contract which will expire Nov. 12. After that date, the unions will remain on the job on a day-to-day basis.

Raymond F. Crawford, manager of personnel and industrial relations at the Pittsburgh office of Bliss, said the negotiations have been going smoothly, "but no definite conclusions have been made."

The disagreement lies outside the basic framework of the general contract signed by the USW in September, he said.

According to Crawford, "most of the difficulty has been over the incentive program which is being requested. When this problem is settled, a contract settlement may follow."

Local 1269, which has 325 members, is threatening a walkout at the Midland division if contract agreements are not reached. Local 1886 at the South Side plant in Pittsburgh is threatening similar action.

Kennedy Says Lindsay Victory 'Lifted' GOP

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Republican party got a "major lift" out of the election of John V. Lindsay as mayor of New York City, says U.S. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y.

"The Democrats did not make the kind of effort in certain areas of the city that should have been made," said Kennedy on arriving here Thursday night.

Jungle Area Scanned For Missing Airplane

PANAMA (AP)—Rescue parties searching for a missing Argentine air force plane set out today for a spot in the Costa Rican jungle where a helicopter pilot reported signs of an air crash.

The plane, a DC4 carrying 55 Argentine military cadets, 5 officers and 9 crewmen, disappeared Wednesday on a flight from the Canal Zone to the United States.

The helicopter, one of 36 aircraft, taking part in the search, reported that trees in the jungle 25 miles east of San Jose, Costa Rica, appeared to have been felled by a crashing plane.

Bringing Up A Family

By Dr. GARRY MYERS

Rote Way Has Desirable Qualities

All your life you may have read and heard ridicule and condemnation of having children learn so much at school by rote.

Dr. Garry Myers

As anybody knows children in the grades and youths in high school and college do spend considerable time learning by heart words and groups of words which have little or no meaning to them. Obviously, such practice may be wasteful. It may cause the learner to grow less interested in meaning, it may cause him to think and reason less instead of more.

However, so much has been said in condemning any kind of rote memory that many teachers and parents suppose no one should ever try to learn anything by heart. Yet, often the child has learned the meaning of four and nine equals thirteen or of the word "busy," any word, indeed. It's very useful for him to remember a number combination he will use the rest of his life.

HOW IS the child to learn to spell many words without learning by heart the letters in proper order in these words? How far would a mathematician or scientist get if he did not remember certain basic symbols and facts whose meanings he had mastered?

Imagine a student of medicine, pharmacy, or dentistry, getting far in his courses if he didn't do a lot of boning, a lot of rote learning.

With a good teacher, the student in high school or college discovers in class the things and their meanings worth remembering. He uses his time in class well when he tries to remember these most important items then and practice later at keeping them in his memory.

The best teacher helps the pupil and student select what is worth remembering and after getting meaning from it, stimulates him to try to remember it.

AS A rule, what is worth knowing is worth remembering. All too often the child and student in class does not feel he should learn by rote some of the very items he will need most to keep in his memory.

Paradoxically, many a college professor of education spends hours in his lecturing condemning all learning by rote. Then in his examination of his class he may ask many questions whose answers must be remembered. Woe to his students if they had not done considerable memorizing for that examination.

So widely has spread the notion that there should be no learning by rote, many Sunday school teachers consider it sinful to have their classes learn by heart any gems from The Bible or from other great literature. While it is desirable, as a rule, to memorize nothing whose meaning has not been mastered, there are some exceptions.

IF A child wanted to memorize the Twenty-third Psalm or The Lord's Prayer or a nursery rhyme till he finally understood it before learning it by heart, he might never learn it. There surely are some beautiful gems of literature worth memorizing before they are entirely understood.

Most of us could save a vast amount of time and energy and be more interesting to others if we disciplined ourselves to remember useful items.

My bulletins "Tips for Students," "Home Helps for Poor Spellers," and "Letting Baby and Tot Learn" may be secured by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Bringing Up A Family

By Dr. GARRY MYERS

Rote Way Has Desirable Qualities

All your life you may have read and heard ridicule and condemnation of having children learn so much at school by rote. As anybody knows children in the grades and youths in high school and college do spend considerable time learning by heart words and groups of words which have little or no meaning to them. Obviously, such practice may be wasteful. It may cause the learner to grow less interested in meaning, it may cause him to think and reason less instead of more.

Dr. Garry Myers

However, so much has been said in condemning any kind of rote memory that many teachers and parents suppose no one should ever try to learn anything by heart. Yet, often the child has learned the meaning of four and nine equals thirteen or of the word "busy," any word, indeed. It's very useful for him to remember a number combination he will use the rest of his life.

—:—

HOW IS the child to learn to spell many words without learning by heart the letters in proper order in these words? How far would a mathematician or scientist get if he did not remember certain basic symbols and facts whose meanings he had mastered?

Imagine a student of medicine, pharmacy, or dentistry, getting far in his courses if he didn't do a lot of boning, a lot of rote learning.

With a good teacher, the student in high school or college discovers in class the things and their meanings worth remembering. He uses his time in class well when he tries to remember these most important items then and practice later at keeping them in his memory.

The best teacher helps the pupil and student select what is worth remembering and after getting meaning from it, stimulates him to try to remember it.

AS A rule, what is worth knowing is worth remembering. All too often the child and student in class does not feel he should learn by rote some of the very items he will need most to keep in his memory.

Paradoxically, many a college professor of education spends hours in his lecturing condemning all learning by rote. Then in his examination of his class he may ask many questions whose answers must be remembered. Woe to his students if they had not done considerable memorizing for that examination.

So widely has spread the notion that there should be no learning by rote, many Sunday school teachers consider it sinful to have their classes learn by heart any gems from The Bible or from other great literature. While it is desirable, as a rule, to memorize nothing whose meaning has not been mastered, there are some exceptions.

IF A child wanted to memorize the Twenty-third Psalm or The Lord's Prayer or a nursery rhyme till he finally understood it before learning it by heart, he might never learn it. There surely are some beautiful gems of literature worth memorizing before they are entirely understood.

Most of us could save a vast amount of time and energy and be more interesting to others if we disciplined ourselves to remember useful items.

Owner Of Store Aids In Arrest Of Theft Suspect

CINCINNATI (AP)—A patent medicine store owner was credited today with helping the police arrest a suspect in the $1,680 holdup of Mutual Savings and Loan Co. within half an hour after the robbery.

Police said Emerson Ernst, 62, was making out a money order at the loan firm in the near downtown area Thursday when a young man robbed the company.

Ernst followed the gunman into the street and trailed the youth to a house several blocks away. He then went to four homes before finding someone who allowed him to use the telephone to call police.

Police arrested John Monk Jr., 20, who was looking out of an apartment window. A detective said he found the money and a .22 caliber automatic pistol in a ground floor apartment.

Johnson Goes Places To Sign Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has established a new trend in ceremonies such as bill signings and swearings-in.

No longer does he just sit there, or stand there, in his office and affix his name to "Great Society measures, or witness the oath-takings of new officeholders.

He goes places. He goes to the Statue of Liberty for the enactment of the immigration reform bill, to the Harry S. Truman Library in Independence, Mo., to sign medicare, to the Capitol to sign voting rights on an Abraham Lincoln desk, and to Hye, Tex., — population 198 — to see Lawrence F. O'Brien become the nation's new postmaster general.

Not that the President doesn't have help — even he couldn't do this all by himself. He gets suggestions from White House aides and on occasion from newsmen alert to what is known in their work as the human-interest angle.

The thought that the President should take O'Brien to the combination post office and general store at Hye — to which Johnson used to trudge as a boy to get the family mail — occurred like a bolt out of the blue to William H. Lawrence, ABC correspondent.

Lawrence said he had passed it along to White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers as a gag. But Lawrence added that the more he thought, the better he thought of it. And the President evidently thought it was just fine.

Sad to relate, LBJ's yearning for the good old days could not be completely satisfied at Hye. He would have liked old-fashioned cheese to serve on crackers to the new postmaster general. But Mrs. Levi A. Deike, wife of the local postmaster and storekeeper, said apologetically she didn't have any of those big rings of cheese Johnson knew as a boy.

Explaining that people seem to have got out of the habit of eating that kind of cheese, she served up a loaf of processed cheese in a fancy, brand-name wrapper.

The idea of signing medicare in Independence was Johnson's own, key aides said. The President took the view that ceremonies, if carried on always at the White House, can become a routine, meaningless ritual.

TWO OFFICIALS of the Hills Department Store at St. Clair Plaza in Calcutta were among 80 employes from six stores who received service awards this week during a banquet at Youngstown. They are Hugo Weinstock, left, assistant manager, and Ernest Fannin, general manager. They have 15 and 5 years' service, respectively, with the organization. Herbert H. Schiff, president of the Shoe Corporation of America, the parent company of Hills, was on hand to join in making the awards.

Slate Of Officers Submitted At Senior Citizens' Meeting

Ted Scheffer, chairman of the nominating committee, presented a slate of officers during the business session of the Senior Citizens Group Thursday afternoon at the parish hall of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church. Jack Barrett, president, presided.

The election will be held in December, with installation in January.

The group received an invitation to attend a program of the Columbiana Senior Citizens Group Nov. 16. Plans were discussed to visit Pittsburgh Dec. 3.

It was announced that Campbell has been appointed a member of the board of the new Columbiana Metropolitan Housing Authority.

Frank Shone read a poem, "Be Careful What You Say." Mrs. Edith Nichols also presented several poems.

Group singing was led by Mrs. Anna Carr, with Mrs. Nell Pelley pianist. Mrs. Phoebe Myers, queen for the day, received a corsage.

Lunch was served to 195, including three visitors.

A memorial service for 32 members of the group, who have died since it was organized, will be held at Thursday's meeting. The Rev. D. Ross Salisbury will be guest speaker. Music will be included on the program.

Vandal Smashes Ornamental Lion

An ornamental lion was one of the casualties in a series of minor vandalism and theft cases reported to police Thursday.

Robert Croyle of 175 Thompson Ave. told police someone shoved the ornamental lion off a porch bannister about 10:58 p.m. Thursday, causing it to break on a concrete porch floor.

Mrs. Michael Vohar of Price St. Ext. told officers Thursday the radio antenna was broken off her 1965 model station wagon on Wednesday evening while it was parked in the 1300 block of Pennsylvania Ave.

Merrill F. Danley of 1905 Lisbon St. reported a ladder which he uses in a window cleaning service was stolen from W. 6th St. near Dresden Ave. about 3:45 p.m. yesterday.

Wilford Harrison of the YMCA told police early today an outside mirror was stolen from his auto between 3 and 11 p.m.

Sending Gift Packages

Students Playing Santa In Pro-Viet Nam Support

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer

College students are playing Santa's helper in growing campus support for American servicemen in Viet Nam.

Hundreds of students are packing gift boxes to meet the Nov. 17 deadline for mailing Christmas packages to Viet Nam.

Thousands of others are donating blood, writing letters, signing petitions and organizing demonstrations in support of U.S. policy.

It's part of the reaction of college students and others to organized demonstrations last month protesting U.S. involvement in the Viet Nam war. Since then the show of support for American fighting men has mushroomed.

One coed at Ohio State University at Columbus has decided that cheesecake may be just the thing for the boys. With the help of her dormitory mates, Jane Sault of Scarsdale, N.Y., collected more than 200 posters showing the college's homecoming queen candidates.

She is sending the pictures to units in Viet Nam through the USO. Jane is also sparking a drive to collect baked goods and other items for the troops.

At Washington College in Chestertown, Md., the girls have organized "Project Cheer John."

The project, sponsored by the Women's Residence Association, is aimed at cheering up servicemen by sending them Christmas gift packages.

Carroll College at Helena, Mont., began a two-week program Thursday in support of the nation's position in Southeast Asia. The Roman Catholic campus program includes offering of Masses and Communions, sending Christmas cards, signing resolutions backing the servicemen, and a torchlight parade.

In San Francisco, the deputy regional director of the post office, Ed Mayfield said, "There has been a tremendous increase of mail to Viet Nam in recent days, but it is all being efficiently expedited."

He said most of the mail was being sent out by air.

Headed south from San Francisco is a truck loaded with $50,000 in drugs for the South Vietnamese people. The drugs, collected in a three-month drive by the Jaycees in Oregon, are en route to Navy supply ships in San Diego.

Samuel Duncan and William Winter Jr. of the Portland Jay-cees are in charge of the shipment.

The Post Office said in Washington that the deadline for mailing Christmas packages to military personnel in Viet Nam had been extended from Nov. 10 to Nov. 17.

The extension was made possible by a new law signed by President Johnson this week, providing for the airlifting of packages from the U.S. port of embarkation.

Chester School Sets Open House

Thayer Allison, principal of the Chester Primary School, has announced that the public is invited to visit the Primary School any time during American Education Week, which begins Monday.

He urged parents to visit classrooms on Tuesday and Wednesday, since schools will be closed Thursday, Veterans Day.

The Primary Parent - Teacher Association will meet Wednesday night at 7:30 at the school, he added.

Johnson Goes Places To Sign Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has established a new trend in ceremonies such as bill signings and swearings-in.

No longer does he just sit there, or stand there, in his office and affix his name to "Great Society measures, or witness the oath-takings of new officeholders.

He goes places. He goes to the Statue of Liberty for the enactment of the immigration reform bill, to the Harry S. Truman Library in Independence, Mo., to sign medicare, to the Capitol to sign voting rights on an Abraham Lincoln desk, and to Hye, Tex., — population 198 — to see Lawrence F. O'Brien become the nation's new postmaster general

Not that the President doesn't have help — even he couldn't do this all by himself. He gets suggestions from White House aides and on occasion from newsmen alert to what is known in their work as the human-interest angle.

The thought that the President should take O'Brien to the combination post office and general store at Hye — to which Johnson used to trudge as a boy to get the family mail — occurred like a bolt out of the blue to William H. Lawrence, ABC correspondent.

Lawrence said he had passed it along to White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers as a gag. But Lawrence added that the more he thought, the better he thought of it. And the President evidently thought it was just fine.

Sad to relate, LBJ's yearning for the good old days could not be completely satisfied at Hye. He would have liked old- fashioned cheese to serve on crackers to the new postmaster general. But Mrs. Levi A. Deike, wife of the local postmaster and storekeeper, said apologetically she didn't have any of those big rings of cheese Johnson knew as a boy.

Explaining that people seem to have got out of the habit of eating that kind of cheese, she served up a loaf of processed cheese in a fancy, brand-name wrapper.

The idea of signing medicare in Independence was Johnson's own, key aides said. The President took the view that ceremonies, if carried on always at the White House, can become a routine, meaningless ritual.

TWO OFFICIALS of the Hills Department Store at St. Clair Plaza in Calcutta were among 80 employes from six stores who received service awards this week during a banquet at Youngstown. They are Hugo Weinstock, left, assistant manager, and Ernest Fannin, general manager. They have 15 and 5 years' service, respectively, with the organization. Herbert H. Schiff, president of the Shoe Corporation of America, the parent company of Hills, was on hand to join in making the awards.

Slate Of Officers Submitted At Senior Citizens' Meeting

Ted Scheffer, chairman of the nominating committee, presented a slate of officers during the business session of the Senior Citizens Group Thursday afternoon at the parish hall of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church. Jack Barrett, president, presided.

The election will be held in December, with installation in January.

The group received an invitation to attend a program of the Columbiana Senior Citizens Group Nov. 16. Plans were discussed to visit Pittsburgh Dec. 3.

It was announced that Campbell has been appointed a member of the board of the new Columbiana Metropolitan Housing Authority.

Frank Shone read a poem, "Be Careful What You Say." Mrs. Edith Nichols also presented several poems.

Group singing was led by Mrs. Anna Carr, with Mrs. Nell Pelley pianist. Mrs. Phoebe Myers, queen for the day, received a corsage.

Lunch was served to 195, including three visitors.

A memorial service for 32 members of the group, who have died since it was organized, will be held at Thursday's meeting. The Rev. D. Ross Salisbury will be guest speaker. Music will be included on the program.

Vandal Smashes Ornamental Lion

An ornamental lion was one of the casualties in a series of minor vandalism and theft cases reported to police Thursday.

Robert Croyle of 175 Thompson Ave. told police someone shoved the ornamental lion off a porch bannister about 10:58 p.m. Thursday, causing it to break on a concrete porch floor.

Mrs. Michael Vohar of Price St. Ext. told officers Thursday the radio antenna was broken off her 1965 model station wagon on Wednesday evening while it was parked in the 1300 block of Pennsylvania Ave.

Merrill F. Danley of 1905 Lisbon St. reported a ladder which he uses in a window cleaning service was stolen from W. 6th St. near Dresden Ave. about 3:45 p.m. yesterday.

Wilford Harrison of the YMCA told police early today an outside mirror was stolen from his auto between 3 and 11 p.m.

Sending Gift Packages

Students Playing Santa In Pro-Viet Nam Support

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer

College students are playing Santa's helper in growing campus support for American servicemen in Viet Nam.

Hundreds of students are packing gift boxes to meet the Nov. 17 deadline for mailing Christmas packages to Viet Nam.

Thousands of others are donating blood, writing letters, signing petitions and organizing demonstrations in support of U.S. policy.

It's part of the reaction of college students and others to organized demonstrations last month protesting U.S. involvement in the Viet Nam war. Since then the show of support for American fighting men has mushroomed.

One coed at Ohio State University at Columbus has decided that cheesecake may be just the thing for the boys. With the help of her dormitory mates, Jane Sault of Scarsdale, N.Y., collected more than 200 posters showing the college's homecoming queen candidates.

She is sending the pictures to units in Viet Nam through the USO. Jane is also sparking a drive to collect baked goods and other items for the troops.

The project, sponsored by the Women's Residence Association, is aimed at cheering up servicemen by sending them Christmas gift packages.

Carroll College at Helena, Mont., began a two-week program Thursday in support of the nation's position in Southeast Asia. The Roman Catholic campus program includes offering of Masses and Communions, sending Christmas cards, signing resolutions backing the servicemen, and a torchlight parade.

In San Francisco, the deputy regional director of the post office, Ed Mayfield said, "There has been a tremendous increase of mail to Viet Nam in recent days, but it is all being efficiently expedited."

He said most of the mail was being sent out by air.

Headed south from San Francisco is a truck loaded with $50,000 in drugs for the South Vietnamese people. The drugs, collected in a three-month drive by the Jaycees in Oregon, are en route to Navy supply ships in San Diego.

Samuel Duncan and William Winter Jr. of the Portland Jaycees are in charge of the shipment.

The Post Office said in Washington that the deadline for mailing Christmas packages to military personnel in Viet Nam had been extended from Nov. 10 to Nov. 17.

The extension was made possible by a new law signed by President Johnson this week, providing for the airlifting of packages from the U.S. port of embarkation.

Chester School Sets Open House

Thayer Allison, principal of the Chester Primary School, has announced that the public is invited to visit the Primary School any time during American Education Week, which begins Monday.

He urged parents to visit classrooms on Tuesday and Wednesday, since schools will be closed Thursday, Veterans Day.

The Primary Parent - Teacher Association will meet Wednesday night at 7:30 at the school, he added.

May Cost Negroes Their Jobs

Natchez Business Heads Are Studying Ultimatum

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP)—Business leaders who say a civil rights boycott has brought "possible stagnation" to Natchez today consider an ultimatum which may cost Negroes their jobs.

The Chamber of Commerce board of directors meets to ponder a plan to have employers "lay off" as many Negro workers as possible unless the boycott ends by Nov. 10.

"Maybe this will put the pressure on local Negroes and force them to react against outside agitators," a store manager said.

"Of course, it might make things worse," he added. "But we've got to do something."

Many downtown stores have been hit hard by the most dramatically effective economic boycott ever organized in the South by civil rights forces.

Store executives along Franklin Street — after stipulating that they must not be identified — estimate sales losses at more than 50 per cent in many cases.

"I have seen Saturdays when it was a struggle to get through the crowd on the sidewalk," said one. "Last Saturday you could have fired off a cannon down Franklin and not hit a human or a car."

Franklin is mainly a street of stores catering to lower income bracket customers — white or Negro.

Natchez has about 11,000 Negro residents, 12,000 whites.

However, stores on Main Street which parallels Franklin one block over, also suffer — depending on the amount of Negro trade they once enjoyed.

In addition, store managers say many whites of the surrounding area now shop elsewhere for fear they might be involved in a demonstration or even in a clash with Negroes or the Ku Klux Klan.

Three Franklin stores, small bargain houses, have folded over the past two weeks.

The boycott backs demands for, among other things, six Negro policemen, better job opportunity, a Negro member on the school board, and the use of "courtesy titles" — Mr., Mrs., or Miss.

The counter-boycott proposal was drawn up Thursday by the chamber's retail merchants section, which said: "The unreasonable boycott has resulted in what amounts to possible stagnation in the community."

If the boycott continues the proposal calls for employers "to begin laying off Negro employes and to encourage all businesses in Natchez and Adams County to cooperate, and to urge housewives to lay off domestic help."

There was no firm estimate on how many workers would be involved.

In Jackson, Negro leader Charles Evers, said the reaction to such a move would be the formation of "bread basket committees" and direct aid to Negroes thrown out of work.

GOP Leader Sees National Implications In Brown's Win

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's Republican chairman sees national implications in what he calls the winning election issue of "one-party control and a rubber stamp Congress" in last Tuesday's only congressional contest.

John S. Andrews of Toledo, who took over as state chairman when Ray C. Bliss moved up to national GOP chieftain, pegged his observation today to the 60 per cent margin rolled up by Clarence J. Brown Jr. in winning the 7th Congressional District seat his late father held for 27 years.

His father, ranking Republican on the House Rules Committee at the time of his death last August, got 56.5 per cent of the vote cast last year in the eight-county district in Western Ohio.

"Brown demonstrated that the issue of one-party control and a rubber stamp congress may well be a factor in next year's congressional elections in Ohio and the nation," Andrews asserted. "That was the main issue in Brown's campaign."

Although the district has elected only two Democratic congressmen in the last century, President Johnson carried it easily last year while sweeping Ohio.

Bliss professed no surprise in Brown's victory over Democratic County Prosecutor James A. Berry of Springfield, who carried only his home county of Clark by a thin margin.

"That's Republican territory and we figured to win it, although Johnson did run well there," Bliss remarked.

Bliss, back in his home town of Akron for the election, described election of a Republican mayor there for the first time in 12 years as "a prime example of what can happen in big cities when good candidates run."

Andrews echoed Bliss' evaluation of candidates by noting that in 26 Ohio cities of more than 25,000 population, Republicans got an even split with Democrats in electing mayors.

Congregation Spurns Effort To Oust Ohio Church Pastor

By JAAN KANGILASKI

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—"I am glad that error and unrighteouness did not prevail and that truth won out in the end," the Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth said today after members of his congregation narrowly turned down a bid to oust him as pastor of Revelation Baptist Church.

"I hope that the outside right-wing elements now will stop their interfering with my church and that the church can get back to spiritual matters," Shuttlesworth added.

Ever since dissension broke out in Shuttlesworth's church last summer, the minister, a top aide to civil rights leader the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. has maintained his opponents are rightwingers trying to make trouble for political reasons.

The opponents, who included some deacons of the church, accused the 43-year-old minister of being "dictatorial" and of misusing church funds.

After 1½ hours of speechmaking Thursday night, the balloting began and the results were announced almost three hours later by a certified public accounting firm: 284 votes for Shuttlesworth and 276 against.

"I would have appreciated a larger majority," Shuttlesworth said "but you must remember that all my opponents were here. Many members of the congregation were not at the meeting—and the fact that I have been running my church on a week-to-week basis should indicate the congregation is not split down the middle."

Some of the weekly services have been marred by shouting arguments and police have come to the church several times.

Shuttlesworth, secretary of the Rev. Dr. King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference, came to Cincinnati four years ago from Alabama. He still goes South frequently on civil rights business.

King stood by his aide during the controversy.

None Of Pupils Hurt

FREMONT, Ohio (AP) — A school bus carrying 38 pupils was damaged only slightly and no one was injured when the bus was struck by a car near here Thursday.

The driver of the car was fined $50 and costs in Sandusky County Court for drunken driving.

Lakes Group Eyes Problem Of Pollution

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Great Lakes River Basin Commission soon will be at work on the critical water pollution problem facing eight states, Sen. Gaylor Nelson, D - Wis., said today.

Organization of the commission probably could begin in two to four weeks and be completed by early next spring, he said.

Three governors have acted to support its creation and those of the other five states are greatly interested, Nelson said.

Governors Otto Kerner of Illinois and George Romney of Michigan have written to Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall asking that the commission be established. Gov. Karl F. Rolvaag of Minnesota has said he will do the same.

The commission would draft a comprehensive plan for the water resources of Minnesota, Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York.

Nelson said he hoped the plan could lead the way to creation of a broader Great Lakes water authority, with legal powers to help build sewage treatment facilities and enforce anti-pollution orders.

Udall can order the establishment of a Great Lakes River Basin Commission upon the request of four of the eight governors.

Board Holds Up Funds For Ohio Historical Unit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Controlling Board held up release of nearly $2 million to the Ohio Historical Society Thursday, asking for specific details on how the money is to be used.

Board members pointed out that the society requests said only that the allocated money, $1,996,750, was for 25 historical sites.

Also deferred was release to Ohio State University of $435,000 which the university intends to use in planning a general campus for a new two-year undergraduate college adjoining the present campus. The board indicated it will ask regents chancellor, Dr. John Millett, for more specifics on OSU's intentions for the new campus.

The board approved the Ohio Youth Commission's $8 million plan for construction, and released $990,000 for improvements at present commission facilities.

Other money released: $100,000 for planning at Ohio State's Marion branch campus, $80,000 for planning at the Lima OSU campus, $505,000 for planning on the Ohio State main campus.

Rites Will Be Monday For Political Figure

CLEVELAND (AP) — Services for Charles H. (Time Clock) Hubbell, who sought public office frequently but never was elected, will be Monday in East Cleveland.

Hubbell, 85, who had been a deputy Cuyahoga County auditor since 1955, died Thursday at his home in East Cleveland.

He earned the nickname "Time Clock" because in many of his campaigns he promised that if elected he would put time clocks in public offices.

A Democrat with Independent leanings, he ran for mayor of Cleveland in 1922 and was a candidate for Lakewood mayor, Ohio lieutenant governor and the Ohio Supreme Court.

Set Sail 11 Days Ago

36 Of 45 Cuban Exiles Drowned, Ministry Says

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Eleven days ago, a band of Cubans set sail across the turbulent waters of the Yucatan Channel, determined to find freedom from the Communists who govern their country.

Forth - five refugees were aboard the fishing boat Jose Marti — named after the hero who led Cuba to independence from Spain—when it sailed Oct. 25.

Only nine reached the shore of Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula.

The Jose Marti almost made it across the narrow channel which separates the Gulf of Mexico from the Caribbean Sea. But off Contoy Island, in sight of the mainland, heavy seas rammed the 65-foot boat into a reef, and sent it to the bottom Tuesday.

Thursday night, the Marine Ministry announced in Mexico City that 36 of the refugees apparently drowned.

The bodies of eight refugees —four women, a man, a girl and two boys—have been recovered.

A search and rescue operation was launched from Yucatan Tuesday after a survivor, Ramon Salazar, swam to Contoy Island and sounded the alarm. Eight other refugees were rescued. The survivors said they planned to apply for visas to enter the United States.

Havana Radio said the Jose Marti—it called the boat the Jose Martinez — sailed "in a clandestine manner" from Pinar del Rio Province, and added that "departures like this have no justification whatsoever because the Cuban government has permitted legal departures from the country."

Cuban authorities announced Wednesday that no more refugees would be permitted to leave by boat.

In Washington, the State Department expressed satisfaction with the Cuban order.

"It would seem to us that this would foreclose the disorderly and dangerous trips," a department spokesman said.

About 2,800 Cubans have sailed across the Florida Straits, often defying storms, since Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro ruled that all who wanted to leave the island could do so.

The State Department spokesman said that only technical details are delaying announcement of an agreement for an orderly evacuation of refugees by air from Cuba.

Bucket, Dipper Are Handy In Water Situation

PINEVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A bucket and dipper became handy utensils in Pineville today.

This eastern Kentucky town of 4,000 turned to wells and trucked-in supplies of drinking water after an oil-base substance contaminated the city water system.

"We're in a bad way," said Mayor Abe Euster.

The privately-owned Pineville Water Co. said it might begin pumping from the nearby Cumberland River. But the river is low and a spokesman said it might not supply the necessary 300,000 gallons a day.

City and company crews dug into streets and around underground storage tanks at gasoline stations Thursday but failed to locate the source of the contaminant.

Jury's Resuming Its Deliberations In Murder Trial

CIRCLEVILLE, Ohio (AP)—The jury deliberated close to seven hours, gave up for the night, and was to resume at 9 a.m. today trying to reach a decision in the murder trial of Cleo V. Keaton.

The jury had six possible verdicts to return on one count of first-degree murder and four possibilites on another count of first-degree murder in perpetration of robbery.

Victim of the slaying was Maurice Francis of Pickaway County, one of three persons Keaton, 27, of Dayton is accused of killing within two or three days last March. He is charged in Montgomery County with murdering two persons in a Dayton area tavern before he allegedly killed Francis in trying to commandeer an automobile to continue his flight.

Keaton's attorneys here presented a two-pronged defense, trying to show that Francis was shot accidentally in a struggle for a gun and that Keaton was insane at the time.

At LBJ Ranch In Texas

First Family Starts Own Beautification Program

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — With the President and Mrs. Johnson, beautification has begun at home at their picturesque ranch property in the central Texas hill country.

Newsmen who visited the LBJ Ranch this week noted a whole series of improvements, all apparently a home-grown offshoot of the First Lady's campaign to beautify the American countryside.

Perhaps the most noticeable change has been the dismantling of lofty communications towers that once loomed directly behind the Johnson home and distracted from the country setting. The only tower left standing in the immediate area is on neighboring property.

It is evident, too, that wires for outdoor loudspeakers, telephones and the like have been buried underground. Wires no longer are strung among the big live oak trees on the front lawn.

And there are other noteworthy touches:

Another granite walk alongside the front lawn, just outside the low white fence and alongside the driveway and parking lot.

Attractive stone walls have been erected, too, some near the house, others around old trees that border the private road leading to the house.

In addition, weeds and bushes have been cleared from ranch fields along the Pedernales River.

Barnyard animals, on the day newsmen were there, had vanished from the stock pens just behind the house. The pens remained and seemed to serve only as roosting places for the First Family's pet peacocks and pea hens.

Then, too, there is a big new pasture of coastal Bermuda grass, a luxuriant grass Johnson apparently hopes to use as a replacement for the rather scraggly growths native to the area.

Johnson once again had no announced schedule for today.

Press secretary Bill D. Moyers said: "He's not going by any pattern. He's just doing things as they come."

May Cost Negroes Their Jobs

Natchez Business Heads Are Studying Ultimatum

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP)—Business leaders who say a civil rights boycott has brought "possible stagnation" to Natchez today consider an ultimatum which may cost Negroes their jobs.

The Chamber of Commerce board of directors meets to ponder a plan to have employers "lay off" as many Negro workers as possible unless the boycott ends by Nov. 10.

GOP Leader Sees National Implications In Brown's Win

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's Republican chairman sees national implications in what he calls the winning election issue of "one-party control and a rubber stamp Congress" in last Tuesday's only congressional contest.

John S. Andrews of Toledo, who took over as state chairman when Ray C. Bliss moved up to national GOP chieftain, pegged his observation today to the 60 per cent margin rolled up by Clarence J. Brown Jr. in winning the 7th Congressional District seat his late father held for 27 years.

His father, ranking Republican on the House Rules Committee at the time of his death last August, got 56.5 per cent of the vote cast last year in the eight-county district in Western Ohio.

"Brown demonstrated that the issue of one-party control and a rubber stamp congress may well be a factor in next year's congressional elections in Ohio and the nation," Andrews asserted. "That was the main issue in Brown's campaign."

Although the district has elected only two Democratic congressmen in the last century, President Johnson carried it easily last year while sweeping Ohio.

Bliss professed no surprise in Brown's victory over Democratic County Prosecutor James A. Berry of Springfield, who carried only his home county of Clark by a thin margin.

"That's Republican territory and we figured to win it, although Johnson did run well there," Bliss remarked.

Bliss, back in his home town of Akron for the election, described election of a Republican mayor there for the first time in 12 years as "a prime example of what can happen in big cities when good candidates run."

Andrews echoed Bliss' evaluation of candidates by noting that in 26 Ohio cities of more than 25,000 population, Republicans got an even split with Democrats in electing mayors.

Congregation Spurns Effort To Oust Ohio Church Pastor

By JAAN KANGILASKI

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—"I am glad that error and unrighteouness did not prevail and that truth won out in the end," the Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth said today after members of his congregation narrowly turned down a bid to oust him as pastor of Revelation Baptist Church.

"I hope that the outside right-wing elements now will stop their interfering with my church and that the church can get back to spiritual matters," Shuttlesworth added.

Ever since dissension broke out in Shuttlesworth's church last summer, the minister, a top aide to civil rights leader the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. has maintained his opponents are rightwingers trying to make trouble for political reasons.

The opponents, who included some deacons of the church, accused the 43-year-old minister of being "dictatorial" and of misusing church funds.

After 1½ hours of speechmaking Thursday night, the balloting began and the results were announced almost three hours later by a certified public accounting firm: 284 votes for Shuttlesworth and 276 against.

"I would have appreciated a larger majority," Shuttlesworth said "but you must remember that all my opponents were here. Many members of the congregation were not at the meeting—and the fact that I have been running my church on a week-to-week basis should indicate the congregation is not split down the middle."

Some of the weekly services have been marred by shouting arguments and police have come to the church several times.

Shuttlesworth, secretary of the Rev. Dr. King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference, came to Cincinnati four years ago from Alabama. He still goes South frequently on civil rights business.

King stood by his aide during the controversy.

Lakes Group Eyes Problem Of Pollution

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Great Lakes River Basin Commission soon will be at work on the critical water pollution problem facing eight states, Sen. Gaylor Nelson, D - Wis., said today.

Organization of the commission probably could begin in two to four weeks and be completed by early next spring, he said.

Three governors have acted to support its creation and those of the other five states are greatly interested, Nelson said.

Governors Otto Kerner of Illinois and George Romney of Michigan have written to Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall asking that the commission be established. Gov. Karl F. Rolvaag of Minnesota has said he will do the same.

The commission would draft a comprehensive plan for the water resources of Minnesota, Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York.

Nelson said he hoped the plan could lead the way to creation of a broader Great Lakes water authority, with legal powers to help build sewage treatment facilities and enforce anti-pollution orders.

Udall can order the establishment of a Great Lakes River Basin Commission upon the request of four of the eight governors.

Board Holds Up Funds For Ohio Historical Unit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Controlling Board held up release of nearly $2 million to the Ohio Historical Society Thursday, asking for specific details on how the money is to be used.

Board members pointed out that the society requests said only that the allocated money, $1,996,750, was for 25 historical sites.

Also deferred was release to Ohio State University of $435,000 which the university intends to use in planning a general campus for a new two-year undergraduate college adjoining the present campus. The board indicated it will ask regents chancellor, Dr. John Millett, for more specifics on OSU's intentions for the new campus.

The board approved the Ohio Youth Commission's $8 million plan for construction, and released $990,000 for improvements at present commission facilities.

Other money released: $100,000 for planning at Ohio State's Marion branch campus, $80,000 for planning at the Lima OSU campus, $505,000 for planning on the Ohio State main campus.

Rites Will Be Monday For Political Figure

CLEVELAND (AP) — Services for Charles H. (Time Clock) Hubbell, who sought public office frequently but never was elected, will be Monday in East Cleveland.

Hubbell, 85, who had been a deputy Cuyahoga County auditor since 1955, died Thursday at his home in East Cleveland.

He earned the nickname "Time Clock" because in many of his campaigns he promised that if elected he would put time clocks in public offices.

A Democrat with Independent leanings, he ran for mayor of Cleveland in 1922 and was a candidate for Lakewood mayor, Ohio lieutenant governor and the Ohio Supreme Court.

29 Ohio Complaints

WASHINGTON (AP)—Twenty-nine of the 966 complaints over which the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission assumed jurisdiction in its first 100 days of operation came from Ohio, the commission says. The complaints involve alleged job discrimination because of race, color, national origin, religion or sex.

Set Sail 11 Days Ago

36 Of 45 Cuban Exiles Drowned, Ministry Says

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Eleven days ago, a band of Cubans set sail across the turbulent waters of the Yucatan Channel, determined to find freedom from the Communists who govern their country.

Forth - five refugees were aboard the fishing boat Jose Marti — named after the hero who led Cuba to independence from Spain—when it sailed Oct. 25.

Only nine reached the shore of Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula.

The Jose Marti almost made it across the narrow channel which separates the Gulf of Mexico from the Caribbean Sea. But off Contoy Island, in sight of the mainland, heavy seas rammed the 65-foot boat into a reef, and sent it to the bottom Tuesday.

Thursday night, the Marine Ministry announced in Mexico City that 36 of the refugees apparently drowned.

The bodies of eight refugees —four women, a man, a girl and two boys—have been recovered.

A search and rescue operation was launched from Yucatan Tuesday after a survivor, Ramon Salazar, swam to Contoy Island and sounded the alarm. Eight other refugees were rescued. The survivors said they planned to apply for visas to enter the United States.

Havana Radio said the Jose Marti—it called the boat the Jose Martinez — sailed "in a clandestine manner" from Pinar del Rio Province, and added that "departures like this have no justification whatsoever because the Cuban government has permitted legal departures from the country."

Cuban authorities announced Wednesday that no more refugees would be permitted to leave by boat.

In Washington, the State Department expressed satisfaction with the Cuban order.

"It would seem to us that this would foreclose the disorderly and dangerous trips," a department spokesman said.

About 2,800 Cubans have sailed across the Florida Straits, often defying storms, since Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro ruled that all who wanted to leave the island could do so.

The State Department spokesman said that only technical details are delaying announcement of an agreement for an orderly evacuation of refugees by air from Cuba.

Bucket, Dipper Are Handy In Water Situation

This eastern Kentucky town of 4,000 turned to wells and trucked-in supplies of drinking water after an oil-base substance contaminated the city water system.

"We're in a bad way," said Mayor Abe Euster.

The privately-owned Pineville Water Co. said it might begin pumping from the nearby Cumberland River. But the river is low and a spokesman said it might not supply the necessary 300,000 gallons a day.

City and company crews dug into streets and around underground storage tanks at gasoline stations Thursday but failed to locate the source of the contaminant.

Discussions included the past summer's activities and the 1965-66 winter program, with ice skating and sledriding at Thompson Park and ice skating at the Klondyke School planned.

Jury's Resuming Its Deliberations In Murder Trial

CIRCLEVILLE, Ohio (AP)—The jury deliberated close to seven hours, gave up for the night, and was to resume at 9 a.m. today trying to reach a decision in the murder trial of Cleo V. Keaton.

The jury had six possible verdicts to return on one count of first-degree murder and four possibilites on another count of first-degree murder in perpetration of robbery.

Victim of the slaying was Maurice Francis of Pickaway County, one of three persons Keaton, 27, of Dayton is accused of killing within two or three days last March. He is charged in Montgomery County with murdering two persons in a Dayton area tavern before he allegedly killed Francis in trying to commandeer an automobile to continue his flight.

Keaton's attorneys here presented a two-pronged defense, trying to show that Francis was shot accidentally in a struggle for a gun and that Keaton was insane at the time.

At LBJ Ranch In Texas

First Family Starts Own Beautification Program

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — With the President and Mrs. Johnson, beautification has begun at home at their picturesque ranch property in the central Texas hill country.

Newsmen who visited the LBJ Ranch this week noted a whole series of improvements, all apparently a home-grown offshoot of the First Lady's campaign to beautify the American countryside.

Perhaps the most noticeable change has been the dismantling of lofty communications towers that once loomed directly behind the Johnson home and distracted from the country setting. The only tower left standing in the immediate area is on neighboring property.

It is evident, too, that wires for outdoor loudspeakers, telephones and the like have been buried underground. Wires no longer are strung among the big live oak trees on the front lawn.

And there are other noteworthy touches:

Another granite walk alongside the front lawn, just outside the low white fence and alongside the driveway and parking lot.

Attractive stone walls have been erected, too, some near the house, others around old trees that border the private road leading to the house.

In addition, weeds and bushes have been cleared from ranch fields along the Pedernales River.

Barnyard animals, on the day newsmen were there, had vanished from the stock pens just behind the house. The pens remained and seemed to serve only as roosting places for the First Family's pet peacocks and pea hens.

Then, too, there is a big new pasture of coastal Bermuda grass, a luxuriant grass Johnson apparently hopes to use as a replacement for the rather scraggly growths native to the area.

Johnson once again had no announced schedule for today.

Press secretary Bill D. Moyers said: "He's not going by any pattern. He's just doing things as they come."

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Folks: About the best buy I ever made was six inexpensive cookie sheets (They come in all sizes) from my dime store to use in our freezer —the upright type which has solid aluminum shelves.

Invariably, when I wanted something, I had to move everything to get to that package of peas, etc., on the bottom, so now I put one layer of frozen boxed stuff on each cookie sheet, standing the boxes on their sides, and when I want something, all I have to do is move a cookie sheet to get to it.

Another good thing about this is that when defrosting time comes, I can remove whole trays of food, instead of one box of frozen food at a time.

So, those who have freezers might like to try this idea.

But . . . no use to go hog wild and buy six trays at once. Just get one or two, and try them out first.

I just know you will love them as I do.

HELOISE.

Nylon Net For Toys

DEAR HELOISE: I have found a use for your wonderful nylon net in the bathroom—a hammock for water toys.

I recently purchased one-half yard, in a matching color, for our bathroom; gathered it on each end, and attached it to the two bathroom towel hooks in sling-fashion above the bathtub.

It is a marvelous help—allows the toys to drain, doesn't mildew, holds more toys, and is convenient for the children to reach.

We love it, and it's pretty, too!

Special love to my friend, Heloise.

MRS. DAN BOLTZ.

Some More Hints

DEAR HELOISE: Corner sinks in "powder" rooms present problems. . . .

To use the space under them, you need a curtain, but how to hang it?

If the under-side of your sink is iron (not solid porcelain), get six or eight magnet hooks at your hardware store, and stick them under the sink edge.

Make a pleated curtain to fit, with six or eight pink hooks, and you have it made!

H.M.B.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: This is the way I remove stamps from an envelope:

I lay the envelope down on the kitchen counter, stamp down.

Then I put a wet paper towel or dishcloth on the envelope, let it stay for a while, then remove it, and the stamp comes off beautifully.

MRS. J. McLAUGHLIN.

DEAR HELOISE: Do you remember trying to give a sleepy little child a teaspoon of cough syrup in the middle of the night?

I solved this problem by measuring how far up on an eyedropper a teaspoon of the syrup came . . . and made this operation a one-handed thing.

Just fill eyedropper to where one teaspoon measures, and one quick squirt in the child's mouth does the trick. The child doesn't even have to sit up for the cough syrup.

Eyedroppers are now available in plastic, so no worry about a youngster biting it.

Kent Freshman, Missing 8 Days, Returns To Home

SEVILLE, Ohio (AP)—James P. Mullin, 19, a Kent State University freshman who disappeared eight days ago, has returned home.

The youth, object of a widespread police search, said Thursday, "I just went to Kansas City to think a while."

He was last seen Oct. 26 hitchhiking near his home on his way back to Kent State.

Mullin went to Kansas City by bus "because that's where the bus was heading." He hitchhiked back to Kent State and withdrew from the university. He notified his parents of his return Tuesday night.

The youth said he has a job he finds more interesting than college—"I'm an errand boy with potentialities of an apprenticeship in engine mechanics."

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Knit One, Purl Two, Drop Pounds

On the practical theory that you cannot knit and eat at the same time, a coed has slimmed down beautifully. Her story is a joy to report.

Ida Jean Kain

"When I slacked off exercise at exam time last spring, I put on 12 pounds of worry-weight almost before I realized what was happening. But it took me almost the entire summer school session to recognize my problem. I knew that once summer school ended, the problem would mount since I would be home and worrying about not eating, yet eating constantly.

"I FINALLY decided it was my depressed frame of mind and that if I could just find something constructive to do with my hands to keep my mind off food, perhaps I could cut out all the junk calories and honestly eat decently again.

"For those of your readers who like to knit, or do any other handcraft for that matter, they have a way to lick the problem. I decided, for my project, to return a favor to a friend, and knit him a sweater. I wanted to improve my knitting ability anyway. Knitting the sweater solved three problems simultaneously. I returned the favor, increased my knowledge of knitting without a pattern and stopped the fattening snacks. I worried only about finishing the sweater, not about eating or my weight.

"IJK — it worked! I lost the 11 pounds, plus two more. Now my weight is perfect. I feel wonderful. I decided since I was becoming a new me, I would also use a little personal grooming. As a protein filler between meals, and to keep from nibbling, I had taken a package of gelatin daily. Consequently, my nails began to harden and grow.

"MOM, THE dear, treated me to a beauty salon trip, which included a slightly new hair-do and a professional manicure. Also, I started ballet classes. So, I'm getting myself back into physical shape as well as keeping myself in good mental shape. P. S. I finished the sweater, and it fitted perfectly."

Bright girl! It's been said that nine - tenths of wisdom is being wise in time. She recognized the need to act so as to put a definite stop to creeping poundage and to prevent the added pounds from "hardening on." By refusing to settle for those 11 extra pounds, they couldn't "grow" into 22 pounds.

And then those ballet lessons! With this action she slammed the door against encroaching poundage. Toned muscles rebuff fat.

Youngstown Man Is Charged With Abducting Coed

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Joe Admas, 21, of Youngstown has been charged in the abduction last Friday of a Youngstown University coed.

Adams was arraigned Thursday in municipal court and pleaded innocent to charges of abduction for immoral purposes, armed robbery and car theft. Adams pleaded innocent earlier in the day to a charge of carrying an eight-inch knife which police said he had in his possession when arrested.

Municipal Court Judge Martin P. Joyce ordered Adams held in lieu of $32,500 bond. Adams is to appear before Judge Joyce for a hearing Nov. 12.

Charges against Adams were filed after Miss Renett Faccioben, 22, of Youngstown picked him out of a police lineup.

Miss Faccioben was found locked in the trunk of a car. She said she was abducted while on her way to class after parking her car near the campus.

Adams served four years in Mansfield Reformatory for burglary and cashing forged checks. He was arrested in August for carrying a concealed weapon.

Man, 23, Bound Over On Attack, Kidnaping

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Richard Tustin, 23, of Akron was bound over to the Summit County Grand Jury by Municipal Judge Evan J. Reed Thursday on charges of rape and kidnaping in the assault of a 19-year-old Akron University coed Oct. 26.

He also was bound over to the grand jury by Cuyahoga Falls Judge Edward J. Mahoney a week ago on a charge of assaulting a 13-year-old Tallmadge girl on Oct. 23. Tustin pleaded innocent to all three charges and is held in the county jail in lieu of $40,000 bond.

Some More Hints

DEAR HELOISE: Corner sinks in "powder" rooms present problems. . . .

To use the space under them, you need a curtain, but how to hang it?

If the under-side of your sink is iron (not solid porcelain), get six or eight magnet hooks at your hardware store, and stick them under the sink edge.

Make a pleated curtain to fit, with six or eight pink hooks, and you have it made!

H.M.B.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: This is the way I remove stamps from an envelope:

I lay the envelope down on the kitchen counter, stamp down.

Then I put a wet paper towel or dishcloth on the envelope, let it stay for a while, then remove it, and the stamp comes off beautifully.

MRS. J. McLAUGHLIN.

DEAR HELOISE: Do you remember trying to give a sleepy little child a teaspoon of cough syrup in the middle of the night?

I solved this problem by measuring how far up on an eyedropper a teaspoon of the syrup came . . . and made this operation a one-handed thing.

Just fill eyedropper to where one teaspoon measures, and one quick squirt in the child's mouth does the trick. The child doesn't even have to sit up for the cough syrup.

Eyedroppers are now available in plastic, so no worry about a youngster biting it.

SEVILLE, Ohio (AP)—James P. Mullin, 19, a Kent State University freshman who disappeared eight days ago, has returned home.

The youth, object of a widespread police search, said Thursday, "I just went to Kansas City to think a while."

He was last seen Oct. 26 hitchhiking near his home on his way back to Kent State.

Mullin went to Kansas City by bus "because that's where the bus was heading." He hitchhiked back to Kent State and withdrew from the university. He notified his parents of his return Tuesday night.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Knit One, Purl Two, Drop Pounds

On the practical theory that you cannot knit and eat at the same time, a coed has slimmed down beautifully. Her story is a joy to report.

Ida Jean Kain

"When I slacked off exercise at exam time last spring, I put on 12 pounds of worry-weight almost before I realized what was happening. But it took me almost the entire summer school session to recognize my problem. I knew that once summer school ended, the problem would mount since I would be home and worrying about not eating, yet eating constantly.

"I FINALLY decided it was my depressed frame of mind and that if I could just find something constructive to do with my hands to keep my mind off food, perhaps I could cut out all the junk calories and honestly eat decently again.

"For those of your readers who like to knit, or do any other handcraft for that matter, they have a way to lick the problem. I decided, for my project, to return a favor to a friend, and knit him a sweater. I wanted to improve my knitting ability anyway. Knitting the sweater solved three problems simultaneously. I returned the favor, increased my knowledge of knitting without a pattern and stopped the fattening snacks. I worried only about finishing the sweater, not about eating or my weight.

"IJK — it worked! I lost the 11 pounds, plus two more. Now my weight is perfect. I feel wonderful. I decided since I was becoming a new me, I would also use a little personal grooming. As a protein filler between meals, and to keep from nibbling, I had taken a package of gelatin daily. Consequently, my nails began to harden and grow.

"MOM, THE dear, treated me to a beauty salon trip, which included a slightly new hair-do and a professional manicure. Also, I started ballet classes. So, I'm getting myself back into physical shape as well as keeping myself in good mental shape. P. S. I finished the sweater, and it fitted perfectly."

Bright girl! It's been said that nine - tenths of wisdom is being wise in time. She recognized the need to act so as to put a definite stop to creeping poundage and to prevent the added pounds from "hardening on." By refusing to settle for those 11 extra pounds, they couldn't "grow" into 22 pounds.

And then those ballet lessons! With this action she slammed the door against encroaching poundage. Toned muscles rebuff fat.

Youngstown Man Is Charged With Abducting Coed

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Joe Admas, 21, of Youngstown has been charged in the abduction last Friday of a Youngstown University coed.

Adams was arraigned Thursday in municipal court and pleaded innocent to charges of abduction for immoral purposes, armed robbery and car theft. Adams pleaded innocent earlier in the day to a charge of carrying an eight-inch knife which police said he had in his possession when arrested.

Municipal Court Judge Martin P. Joyce ordered Adams held in lieu of $32,500 bond. Adams is to appear before Judge Joyce for a hearing Nov. 12.

Charges against Adams were filed after Miss Renett Faccioben, 22, of Youngstown picked him out of a police lineup.

Miss Faccioben was found locked in the trunk of a car. She said she was abducted while on her way to class after parking her car near the campus.

Adams served four years in Mansfield Reformatory for burglary and cashing forged checks. He was arrested in August for carrying a concealed weapon.

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Richard Tustin, 23, of Akron was bound over to the Summit County Grand Jury by Municipal Judge Evan J. Reed Thursday on charges of rape and kidnaping in the assault of a 19-year-old Akron University coed Oct. 26.

He also was bound over to the grand jury by Cuyahoga Falls Judge Edward J. Mahoney a week ago on a charge of assaulting a 13-year-old Tallmadge girl on Oct. 23. Tustin pleaded innocent to all three charges and is held in the county jail in lieu of $40,000 bond.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think of a husband who wakes his wife up at 2 a.m. to tell her to stop snoring? Clem started this a few months ago when he retired from his job. I'm not retired, however. Clem can sleep late in the morning but I can't.

Last night when Clem woke me up I got real mad. I asked him what in the world he thought he was accomplishing. He said, "Nothing is more annoying than being kept awake by a snorer. The snorer should stay up and keep his victim company."

Isn't this the meanest thing you ever heard of? I don't snore on purpose. If I could stop I would. What can I do? — POOPED.

Dear Pooped: First see a doctor and learn if he can do anything about your snoring. Sometimes minor surgery will eliminate the problem. If the doctor says it is more complicated in your case, buy a cot and sleep in another part of the house.

Letter To Employers

Dear Ann: I'm a member of America's most persecuted minority, an ex-convict.

Now that I have served my time, I can't get a job. First I was truthful and owned up to my record. The answer was, "We appreciate your honesty but we can't hire you. It's against company policy."

After several such experiences I wrote "no" under the question, "Have you ever been convicted of a felony?" Twice the truth came out and I was fired.

How can a person survive if he is unable to earn a living? I'm 39 years old, in perfect health and willing to do any kind of legitimate work. I'm a bachelor and can work 14 hours a day, six days a week. I will move anywhere.

I keep reading that at least two-thirds of those with records return to jail within 90 days. I'm sure many of them would have preferred to go straight but society would not let them.

When a man finds all doors closed he loses his courage and dignity. Please, Ann Landers, I'm begging you — help me to be a useful citizen.—WILLING BUT UNEMPLOYABLE.

Dear Willing: I'm printing your letter and addressing my remarks to employers all over the U.S.A.:

Where would you be today if nobody gave you a second chance? Put yourself in this man's shoes. I'm asking you to give a break to men who have records. Some will fail you, but the ones who come through will have been saved for all time. And such a man can well turn out to be the best employe you could have. In my book it's worth the chance.

Who's A Dumb Jerk?

Dear Ann: I'm going with a gentleman who is separated but not divorced. Kenny and I are together Monday through Thursday. On Friday he moves right in with his estranged wife and children — suitcase and all.

Yesterday I told him to go back to his family full-time or stop sleeping over there. He answered, "I can always get another girl friend but I can never replace my wonderful children."

Why doesn't this dumb jerk realize that one day his "wonderful children" will get married and have lives of their own that don't include him? By that time he will have passed up a chance to make a new life for himself. Should I make Kenny choose between me and his family?—SWEET ADELINE.

Dear Adeline: Wake up and smell the coffee, Lady. He has chosen. Them, I'll bet an old Dewey button if you told Kenny to flake off he'd go back to his family on a full-time basis. If it's marriage you want, forget him.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Brotherhood Thanked For Housing Plan Aid

Merrill D. Hall, former mayor who helped initiate a movement that culminated with establishment of the Columbiana Metropolitan Housing Authority, has expressed his appreciation for aid given by the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters and its officers.

Hall, in a letter reviewing the history of the area movement, commended Frank Dales, the IBOP's sixth vice president, for helping persuade the State Housing Board to authorize establishment of the metropolitan authority to set up low-cost housing units in various parts of the county.

The former mayor also thanked E. L. Wheatley, the IBOP president, and "all those who in any way contributed to this project, truly a team accomplishments to meet a challenging need in our communities for their deserving citizens."

Farmer-Weatherman Drops Role Today As Forecaster

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Farmers traditionally keep a close eye on the weather. But Don E. Coleman has spent 37 years watching weather more closely than the sharpest-eyed farmer.

Today he drops the dual role of farmer - forecaster, ending his service with the U. S. Weather Bureau.

Then he heads for his 40-acre farm four miles from the weather station at Toledo Express Airport, hoping to start in picking corn. "That is," he said, "if the weather is all right for it."

Coleman spent 26 years with the Weather Bureau here and grew used to the second-guessing, gibing and abuse that plagues many a forecaster.

"Of course, everyone believes he knows the weatherman's job better than a meteorologist," he says, "whether it's due to the aching of his corns or because of the woolly worms—and they tell us, too."

"You'd be surprised how many people seriously believe I have something to do with controlling the weather."

They call if rain ruins a party or picnic.

"I guess they feel I must have some magic touch to tell the weather what to do," he says.

That he doesn't was demonstrated in 1951. Coleman invited the Weather Bureau staff and families to his home for a picnic.

It rained.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Meet The Real Addams

Charles Addams, creator of those famous cobwebby cartoons in the New Yorker magazine, says he is personally as anonymous as he ever was, that extending his cartoon characters into people characters on ABC-TV's "The Addams Family" has changed his mode of living hardly at all.

Hal Humphrey

"Oh, I've found myself reading TV columns more avidly and receiving more mail, but generally people think I'm dead," observes Addams, with almost a smirk of self-satisfaction.

-:-

THE TALL, relaxed Addams, who bears a slight facial resemblance to the dour Gomez in his cartoons, was in Hollywood over the weekend to help Carolyn Jones (Morticia in the "Addams Family" series) celebrate Halloween. It is his first trip to Hollywood since the TV show began more than a year ago.

"I also wanted to look up some Bugatti owners I've been reading about in a new magazine about antique cars. One of them is 40 years old," says Addams, referring to the car, not the owner. His own garage contains a Bugatti for tinkering and a Bentley for transportation.

Addams' desire for personal anonymity includes turning down occasional offers to be a TV panelist, or even just for fun to play a minor role in "The Addams Family."

"IT'S A BAD IDEA for me to go on TV shows. I think it's better to make people guess what I look like. Let them imagine I'm more monstrous than I am," he says.

Until this trip to the West Coast, Addams hadn't met his TV cast in person, except for Carolyn, who had been to New York. In fact, he has seen only a few of the "Addams Family" shows ("It's on at an awkward time for me").

He probably is the only creative person connected with a TV series today who isn't upset because the network hasn't put the show in color.

"I've always preferred black and white, and I think I am dealing with a black-and-white subject," he states.

ONE MIGHT expect Addams to top off such an announcement with a sinister laugh, but his grisly taste for the macabre is beguilingly buried under an extremely gentle manner.

"I receive letters from kids who are mad at me because the characters on the TV show aren't mean enough. A minister in North Carolina keeps sending me ideas for cartoons, but most of them are too gruesome. Once in awhile I can use one," he says.

Addams decided quite correctly there was nothing he could do in a cartoon to improve on the original in this case.

THIS SEASON "The Addams Family" is taking a beating in the Nielsen rating list from CBS - TV's "The Munsters," which also premiered last season and, although the names have been changed, obviously was inspired by the Addams cartoons.

"We were going to sue them last year," says Addams, who seemed to be trying to recall why he didn't. "The art editor of the New Yorker met a CBS executive on a communter train one morning and told him I might be suing, and the CBS executive said, 'I thought we were already paying him a royalty on each episode.' Maybe I should sue them after all."

Having a lower rating than "The Munsters" does not seem to disturb Addams, who was pleased at the suggestion that a smaller audience indicated his series was for the more discriminating.

Should the TV series become too popular, there's the possibility that the highly discriminating New Yorker might decide Addams was no longer for its dilettante readers. The editors already have let quite a backlog of unpublished Addams cartoons accumulate, a fact which should pique the diabolical Addams mind into planning some kind of wild revenge.

Jenkins At Pitt Reunion . . .

The University of Pittsburgh faces Notre Dame Saturday and with the way the Panthers have been performing on defense the Irish could have a field day.

In connection with the game, Pitt's 1955 squad, the last Panther team to win the Lambert trophy, will hold a reunion Friday night at Webster Hall.

The Pitt team of '55 wound up with a 7-3 record and went to the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans only to lose 7-0 to Georgia Tech. Tom was the second leading ground gainer on the Pitt team that year.

He is now residing in Alexandria, Va., and is employed by RCA's computor division, working with the government in Washington D.C.

So far 28 players from the 1955 squad have accepted invitations to attend the reunion.

Ex-Big Red Star Going Strong . . .

. . . . HARRY WILSON of Steubenville, who was back of the year in Ohio in 1962 was given the following compliment the other day by Bob Devaney, head coach of the University of Nebraska.

Nebraska, the No. 3 team in the nation, edged past Missouri, 16-14 last Saturday and Devaney was asked by a sportswriter what he thought was the turning point of the game.

Wilson again was the standout for the Nebraska eleven, picking up 74 yards in 12 tries and setting up one touchdown on a 37-yard dash to the one yard line. Wilson is Nebraska's leading ground gainer.

Picks Of The Week . . .

A LOOK AT THE PERCENTAGE last week in predicting of local high school games read .727, or eight right and three wrong.

Oak Glen has a big battle on its hands with Weirton in a natural rivalry between a pair of Hancock County teams. We will stick with Oak Glen to bounce back from last week's defeat and top Weirton by a touchdown.

Beaver Local may be a slight underdog, but we feel the Beavers can nip Toronto tonight, while Wellsville rates a slight edge over Springfield Local.

We like Midland in its final game of the season to defeat Freedom by two touchdowns.

Looking elsewhere, Jefferson Union, undefeated in eight games, must be given the edge over Stanton Local, but the Red Raiders are capable of giving the JU eleven a long evening.

In two games Saturday, we will have to pick United over Southern by a wide margin and Crestview to end the season on a winning note over Greenford.

Massillon's Flurry In Second Period Tops EL Junior High Stars, 34-8

Massillon exploded for 28 points during a period of seven minutes of the second quarter to score a 34-8 victory over the East Liverpool Junior High All-Stars Thursday night at Patterson Field.

OUTSIDE of the flurry of points which came rapidly in the second period the East Liverpool All-Stars played Massillon on even terms during the remainder of the contest.

After a scoreless first quarter which found East Liverpool holding Massillon on its own five, the young Tigers tallied their first touchdown when Jim Mauger tallied from the one with 8:11 to go in the second quarter.

THE NEXT time Massillon got the ball, John Hodgson raced 40 yards and the added conversion made it 22-0. Before the quarter ended, Mark McDew intercepted a Potter pass and rambled 50 yards to paydirt.

The teams played scoreless in the third period with East Liverpool cashing in for a touchdown on the first play of the fourth quarter when quarterback Danny Cunningham, faking nicely, rolled out around the right side for four yards and the six points.

JIM MUSURACA found a big hole over the right side for the two-point conversion.

Massillon went to the air for its final touchdown in the fourth quarter when M. Malinowski tossed to Bill Frew on a 20-yard play.

East Liverpool's attack was featured by the running of Musuraca who finished as the leading ground gainer for the young Potters.

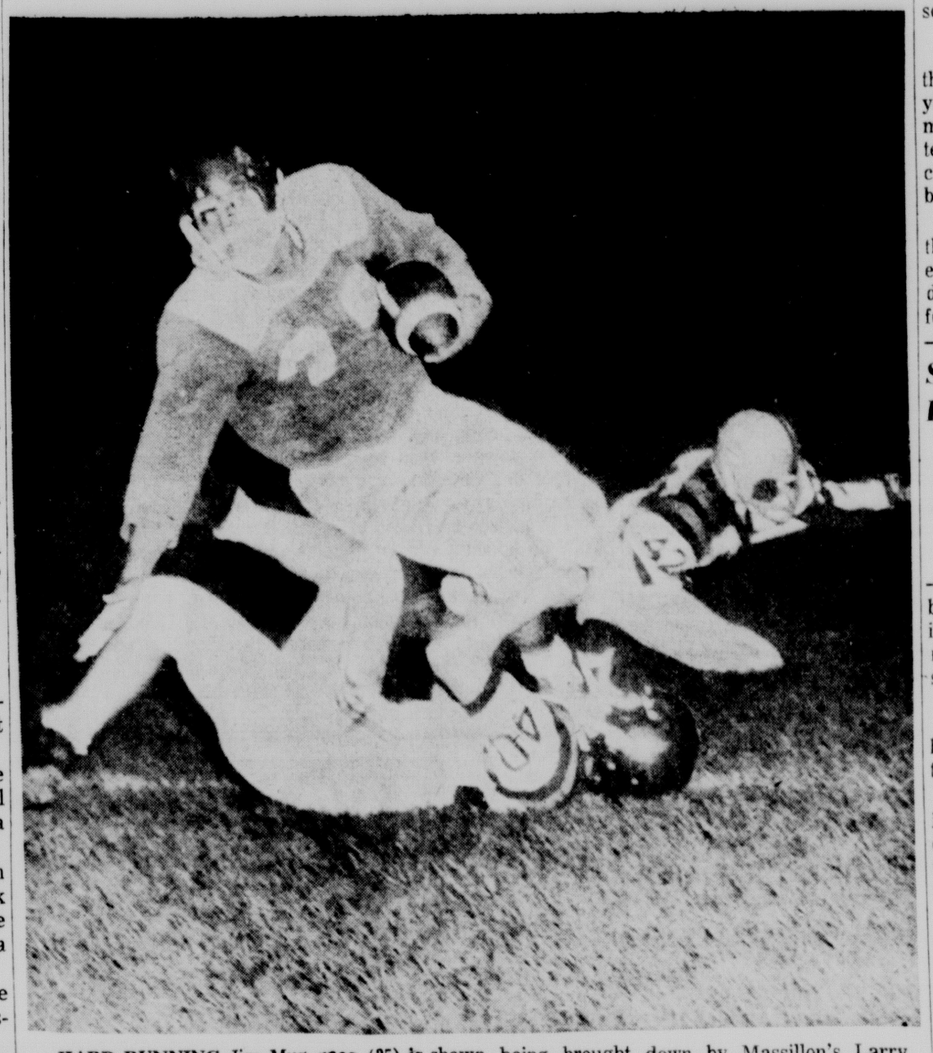
MASSILLON	0	28	0	6	—34
EAST LIVERPOOL	0	0	0	8	— 8



HARD RUNNING Jim Musuraca (35) is shown being brought down by Massillon's Larry Shumar (40) during action in the second quarter Thursday night at Patterson Field.

Springfield Contest Is At Wellsville

The Springfield - Wellsville game tonight is at Wellsville's Nicholson Stadium and not at Springfield as previously announced. Kickoff will be at 8 p. m.

Trade Helps Walt Bellamy

NEW YORK (AP) — Walt Bellamy is earning his living this year the same way he did four years ago — playing professional basketball — but he feels he has embarked on a new career.

The reason for this feeling is a trade which brought Bellamy to the New York Knicks for three players and cash earlier this week.

"It's a beginning for me. It's a new day," the 6-foot-11, 225-pound center said of the deal.

He scored 16 points, grabbed 16 rebounds and contributed six assists in the Knicks' 108-107 victory over Baltimore in the second game of a National Basketball Association doubleheader. San Francisco edged Philadelphia 121-119 in the first game.

Potters In Final Contest At Home As Salem Visits

East Liverpool's senior players will take their final bow before the home fans as the Potters meet Salem in the Patterson Field finale tonight. Kickoff is at 7:45 p. m.

Coach Bob McNea's Potters go after their fifth win of the season tonight before concluding the campaign next week at Alliance.

Tonight's contest is a big one for the Potters since a victory would assure them of a winning season. East Liverpool carries a 4-3-1 record into tonight's game while Salem, with one contest to go next week, is 5-3 under new head coach Bob Jones.

THE POTTERS, which seemed down somewhat last week with Weirton after a superior effort against fifth ranked Steubenville Big Red, managed to defeat Weirton, 14-6.

While the Potters were victorious, Salem had a four game winning streak snapped last week at the hands of Boardman which was undefeated up until last night when the Spartans lost 6-0 to Struthers.

SALEM can be dangerous as reflected in its 7-6 win over a strong Marietta club. The Quakers also have defeated West Branch, 22-0, and West Branch holds a victory over Newton Falls which defeated the Potters, 16-14. Other victories came over Cleveland Lincoln, Canton Timken and Wellsville.

The two Columbiana County teams will be meeting for the 50th time tonight in a series which goes back to 1911. The Potters hold the edge in the long rivalry of 27-20-2.

Oak Glen-Weirton Tilt Will Start At 7:30

The Oak Glen-Weirton game tonight at Newell will begin at 7:30, a half hour earlier than usual. The game will be Oak Glen's final of the season. The Golden Bears have a 7-2 record while Weirton is 4-3-1.

District Grid Schedule

Beaver Local at Toronto
Springfield (Jeff. Co.) at Wellsville

Tim And Jim Duel Looms At Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—An interesting sidelight to the game here Sunday between the Cleveland Browns and Philadelphia Eagles may be provided by a duel between halfback Tim Brown of the Eagles and fullback Jim Brown of the Browns.

Tim Brown is second only to Jim in combined yardage in the National Football League with 342 rushing and 510 on pass receptions for an 852 total.

Jim leads the league in rushing with 777 yards and has gained 139 on pass receptions for a 916 total.

Tim no doubt will be trying to make up for the unintentional favor he did the Browns when the teams met earlier in the season in Philadelphia.

Cleveland was trailing by three points in the last quarter when Brown fumbled and Sidney Williams recovered for the Browns. The Browns went ahead quickly after the bobble and then added two touchdowns for good measure to score a 35-17 triumph.

Rocky Voted Man Of Year For Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — Rocky Colavito is the Cleveland Indians "Man of the Year," for 1965, the Cleveland chapter of the Baseball Writers Association has decided. They said today he would be honored at the chapter's annual Ribs and Roasts Dinner in mid-January.

Exact date and place for the banquet has not yet been chosen, but there was little difficulty in making the decision on Rocky. His selection was almost unanimous—two votes going to pitcher—Sam McDowell.

This is the second time the slugging outfielder has been selected for Man of the Year honors. He won that title in 1958, when he hit 41 homers, averaged .303 at bat and drove in 148 runs.

Reacquired by the Tribe last season from the Kansas City Athletics, Colavito batted .287, with 26 home runs, and led the club in runs batted in with 108. He also was a big factor in revitalizing interest in the baseball club and boosting attendance.

Roy Sievers Named Reds' Batting Coach

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Roy Sievers, former home-run hitting star and the American League's Rookie of the Year in 1949, was named batting coach of the Cincinnati Reds today.

Sievers will be in his first job as a coach. He quit as a player after he was released by the Washington Senators in 1965.

Sievers, who will be 39 on Nov. 18, broke into major league ball with the old St. Louis Browns and earned the rookie honors by belting 16 homers, driving in 91 runs and batting .306.

Packers Sign Lombardi To New 8-Year Contract

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — The Green Bay Packers, following the National Football League trend toward long-term contracts, have signed Vince Lombardi to a new contract retaining him as coach and general manager for at least eight more years.

Packer President Dominic Olejniczak insisted that the new contract, signed Thursday, had nothing to do with rumors that Lombardi might leave Green Bay, perhaps to take over the helm of the new Atlanta NFL franchise.

"There's nothing to that at all," said Olejniczak, who noted that past rumors had the 52-year-old Lombardi headed for coaching jobs at Army, Navy and the Air Force Academy.

He said the contract was not much different than three earlier ones given Lombardi, including one signed in 1964 that extended Lombardi's tenure to 1969. Thursday's pact, like the earlier ones, was for five additional years.

Lombardi took over the Packers after the 1958 season when the team won only one game and then captured three Western Division crowns and two league titles. He said, "I'm very happy to stay in Green Bay. This is our home. This is where our friends are and this is where my job is."

College's Big 3 Shoot For Eighth Straight Saturday

Spartans Could Clinch Tie For Big Ten Crown

By The Associated Press

Iowa, Rice and Kansas are teams in trouble.

The reason is simple: they play Michigan State, Arkansas and Nebraska, the nation's top three college football teams, Saturday.

While each of the big three has won seven games without losing any, Iowa has won only one of seven, Rice two of six and Kansas two of seven.

Iowa has the difficult task of stopping the No. 1 team in the country and in the process prevent the Spartans from clinching a tie for the Big Ten title.

Rice will try and delay second-ranked Arkansas' march to the Southwest Conference crown while Kansas will attempt to foil third-ranked Nebraska's championship intentions in the Big Eight.

In other games involving teams in the Top Ten, fourth-ranked Notre Dame plays Pitt; Alabama, No. 5, goes against Louisiana State in a night game; sixth-rated Southern California battles California; Georgia Tech, No. 7, is at Tennessee; eighth-ranked UCLA meets Washington; ninth-ranked Missouri takes on Colorado, and Kentucky, No. 10, plays Vanderbilt at night.

Michigan State never has won a Big Ten title although it tied Illinois for the 1953 crown. But if they get past Iowa, the Spartans have only Indiana to worry about.

Based on their record, the Spartans have little to fear. They own the best defense against rushing in the nation and are the second toughest team to score against. Per game, Michigan State opponents have gained only 57.4 yards on the ground and scored only 6.6 points.

Arkansas has its offense in high gear with Jon Brittenum's passing and Bobby Burnett's running sparking the way.

Larry Wachboltz, whose field goal beat Missouri last week, has an injured foot and may not play against Kansas, but Nebraska still should extend its winning streak.

Notre Dame plays a Pitt team that gave up 51 points last week, and Southern California meets a California team that gave up 56 points two weeks ago, then beat Penn State last week.

Alabama faces a tough battle with Louisiana State while Georgia Tech goes against Tennessee, which has allowed only 6.2 points a game.

UCLA tries to keep its Pacific Athletic Conference hopes alive against Washington, Missouri attempts to get back into the Big Eight race and Kentucky sends the nation's 10th best pass offense against Vanderbilt.

Packers Favored In Close One

Colts Picked Over Bears, Eagles Given Slight Edge

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The young phenoms of the Chicago Bears meet the old pros from Baltimore Sunday in the big game of the pro football weekend. Can the Colts corral Gale Sayers and Andy Livingston? Can the Bears handle Johnny Unitas?

The old bromide that goes "on any given day, any team in pro football can beat any other team" was right in style last week. The roof fell in on the old Hand picker for a 3-8 day. That left the season totals 34-15 in the NFL, 14-10-3 in the AFL and 48-25-3 overall.

It also left the selector in a daze. Maybe November will be better. Let's try again: (all games Sunday)

NFL

Baltimore 31, Chicago 28 — Colts have won five straight since losing to the Packers 20-17. The Bears have won four in a row since bowing to Green Bay in their first meeting. Chicago got even with the Packers last week 31-10 and can move into the thick of the race with another victory.

Minnesota 34, Los Angeles 24 — They played a wild one on the Coast Oct 3, won by the Vikings 38-35 on a field goal by Fred Cox in the final seconds. Vikings' attack cracks any defense, especially the Rams' secondary.

Green Bay 20, Detroit 17 — This could be real close. The Lions held a 21-3 halftime lead when they met Oct. 17 but Bart Starr hit for three touchdowns in the third quarter and a 31-21 edge. Starr was shaken up last week and will need to be in top shape to withstand Lions' big rush.

Philadelphia 21, Cleveland 20 —This is really asking for trouble. The Browns figure to be hopping mad after that upset by the Vikings. Jim Brown made 133 yards against Eagles in first game but it took five interceptions to set up 35-17 margin.

St. Louis 27, Pittsburgh 13— Isn't there an easy one any more? If the Cards perform like they did at Yankee Stadium, the Steelers can knock them off. If Larry Wilson can't play, St. Louis can be hurting. Steelers rough on defense when bowing to Cards 20-7 Oct. 17. Could be another big day for Bill Triplett.

San Francisco 17, Dallas 14 — Loss of John Brodie has dropped 49ers into underdog role but they seem to pack too much offense in well-balanced attack.

New York 14, Washington 10 — Redskins on the move with two straight over Cards and Eagles. Much depends on condition of Charley Taylor and ability of Giants' rookie Spider Lockhart to handle Bobby Mitchell.

AFL

San Diego 24, Denver 17 — Lance Alworth caught seven for 211 yards when the Chargers edged the Broncos early 34-31. Denver looked bad in game with Jets last week. Chargers should bounce back from defeat by Boston and may take advantage of chink left by injury to corner man Willie Brown.

Kansas City 21, New York 17 — The Chiefs just did take the Jets 14-10 in their first meeting when Len Dawson hit Chris Burford with two TD passes. New York thinks it hit its stride last week in 45-10 romp over Denver. Buck Buchanan and Bobby Bell lead rugged rush.

Buffalo 20, Boston 17 — The Bills rolled over the Pats in the season opener 24-7 but that was before they lost Elbert Dubenion and Glenn Bass. Boston finally broke losing streak in San Diego and ache to get even for that loss to Buffalo in the snow last December. Close but Buffalo wins on its line.

Oakland 21, Houston 20 — George Blanda can't do it every week and the Oilers will have their hands full with rookie Fred Bilentnikoff if Al Davis can solve his quarterback problem.

'Bridge Game' Stalls Progress Of Dredging

The bridge spans the Hiwassee between McMinn and Bradley counties. The foursome—the two counties and the towns of Calhoun and Charleston — won't claim it.

Charlie Beasley, executive director of the McMinn County Committee of 100, says the bridge must be moved before the Tennessee Valley Authority can continue dredging the river.

Old Pay Scale

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Eldridge Moss recently dropped by the city hall and asked for a day's pay the city had owed him for 28 years. He worked for the John Gaston Municipal hospital a day in 1937 but never got his check for the work. On the basis of the pay at that time, the city owed him 90 cents.

Packers Favored In Close One

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The young phenoms of the Chicago Bears meet the old pros from Baltimore Sunday in the big game of the pro football weekend. Can the Colts corral Gale Sayers and Andy Livingston? Can the Bears handle Johnny Unitas?

The old bromide that goes "on any given day, any team in pro football can beat any other team" was right in style last week. The roof fell in on the old Hand picker for a 3-8 day. That left the season totals 34-15 in the NFL, 14-10-3 in the AFL and 48-25-3 overall.

It also left the selector in a daze. Maybe November will be better. Let's try again: (all games Sunday)

NFL

Baltimore 31, Chicago 28 — Colts have won five straight since losing to the Packers 20-17. The Bears have won four in a row since bowing to Green Bay in their first meeting. Chicago got even with the Packers last week 31-10 and can move into the thick of the race with another victory.

Minnesota 34, Los Angeles 24 — They played a wild one on the Coast Oct 3, won by the Vikings 38-35 on a field goal by Fred Cox in the final seconds. Vikings' attack cracks any defense, especially the Rams' secondary.

Green Bay 20, Detroit 17 — This could be real close. The Lions held a 21-3 halftime lead when they met Oct. 17 but Bart Starr hit for three touchdowns in the third quarter and a 31-21 edge. Starr was shaken up last week and will need to be in top shape to withstand Lions' big rush.

Philadelphia 21, Cleveland 20 —This is really asking for trouble. The Browns figure to be hopping mad after that upset by the Vikings. Jim Brown made 133 yards against Eagles in first game but it took five interceptions to set up 35-17 margin.

St. Louis 27, Pittsburgh 13— Isn't there an easy one any more? If the Cards perform like they did at Yankee Stadium, the Steelers can knock them off. If Larry Wilson can't play, St. Louis can be hurting. Steelers rough on defense when bowing to Cards 20-7 Oct. 17. Could be another big day for Bill Triplett.

San Francisco 17, Dallas 14 — Loss of John Brodie has dropped 49ers into underdog role but they seem to pack too much offense in well-balanced attack.

New York 14, Washington 10 — Redskins on the move with two straight over Cards and Eagles. Much depends on condition of Charley Taylor and ability of Giants' rookie Spider Lockhart to handle Bobby Mitchell.

AFL

San Diego 24, Denver 17 — Lance Alworth caught seven for 211 yards when the Chargers edged the Broncos early 34-31. Denver looked bad in game with Jets last week. Chargers should bounce back from defeat by Boston and may take advantage of chink left by injury to corner man Willie Brown.

Kansas City 21, New York 17 — The Chiefs just did take the Jets 14-10 in their first meeting when Len Dawson hit Chris Burford with two TD passes. New York thinks it hit its stride last week in 45-10 romp over Denver. Buck Buchanan and Bobby Bell lead rugged rush.

Buffalo 20, Boston 17 — The Bills rolled over the Pats in the season opener 24-7 but that was before they lost Elbert Dubenion and Glenn Bass. Boston finally broke losing streak in San Diego and ache to get even for that loss to Buffalo in the snow last December. Close but Buffalo wins on its line.

Oakland 21, Houston 20 — George Blanda can't do it every week and the Oilers will have their hands full with rookie Fred Bilentnikoff if Al Davis can solve his quarterback problem.

'Bridge Game' Stalls Progress Of Dredging

The bridge spans the Hiwassee between McMinn and Bradley counties. The foursome—the two counties and the towns of Calhoun and Charleston — won't claim it.

Charlie Beasley, executive director of the McMinn County Committee of 100, says the bridge must be moved before the Tennessee Valley Authority can continue dredging the river.

Old Pay Scale

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Eldridge Moss recently dropped by the city hall and asked for a day's pay the city had owed him for 28 years. He worked for the John Gaston Municipal hospital a day in 1937 but never got his check for the work. On the basis of the pay at that time, the city owed him 90 cents.

$24 Million Super Dome

New Orleans' NFL Stock Soars With Stadium Plan

By BEN THOMAS
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — This city's stock as the National Football League's 16th member soared today after the announcement of plans to build a $24-million super-dome stadium.

But promoter Dave Dixon, who has been angling for a pro football franchise for years, has even greater visions such as the Pan-American track games, the NCAA basketball championship tourney, and world championship prizefights.

Dixon even sees the Sugar Bowl switching from 82,500-seat Tulane University Stadium to the 60,000 super dome "and getting $8 a ticket for air-conditioned comfort on Jan. 1."

The announcement of plans for the stadium came Thursday from Mayor Victor H. Schiro.

In New York, an NFL spokesman said the availability of the heavily in New Orleans' favor in the granting of a franchise.

"Currently, we are having research conducted by an independent firm in seven cities, one of which is New Orleans," said the spokesman. "And certainly, one of the major considerations in its study will be the availability of suitable stadiums.

"Certainly construction of such a stadium in New Orleans would be in its favor, as it would in any of the other six."

The NFL says it will grant a franchise for a 16th team — to begin playing in the 1967 season — sometime next spring. Other cities in the running are Houston, which has the Astrodome, Portland, Seattle, Boston, Cincinnati and Phoenix.

4 Monkeys Cut 'Monkeyshine' Around Airport

Four rhesus monkeys on their way to the Harvard School of Public Health for research purposes escaped from their cages early Thursday at the air freight terminal at Logan International Airport.

The four — Blackie, Baldy, Brucie and Boliba—immediately took to beams and rafters overhead and made monkeys out of everybody trying to catch them for the rest of the day.

Finally three of the monkeys were overpowered in 45 minutes of hand-to-hand combat. But Boliba, described as the ringleader of the insurrection, was still loose at last report, up there swinging.

Miami Can Clinch Tie For Mid-America Title

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State's clash with Indiana and important Mid - American and Ohio Conference contests spice an attractive collegiate football schedule this weekend in the Buckeye State.

And in the 15-member Ohio Conference, Muskingum, 5-0, can also nail down at least a tie for the league title by beating Denison at New Concord.

Bowling Green, last year's MAC king, has to win its next two, against Marshall and Ohio University, to share honors with the Redskins. The Falcons, 3-1, are expected to prevail over the injury-ridded West Virginians, 1-2.

Ohio U., 0-7 on the season and 0-3 in the loop, entertains Western Michigan, 2-2-1. The Bobcats will be fighting to avoid their worst season ever.

In other features, Akron plays host to Butler, Wittenberg is at home to Wabash, slumping Cincinnati visits Kansas State, Findlay, beaten last week for the first time, tries to rebound against Hillsdale, and Dayton goes to Cincinnati for a match with potent Xavier.

The others:

Al Lopez Retires As Sox' Manager

CHICAGO (AP) — The greatest baseball bridesmaid in history has turned in his uniform.

He piloted two pennant winners in 15 years as a major league manager — in 1954 with the Cleveland Indians and in 1959 with the White Sox. His teams finished second 10 times.

Lopez, who guided the Sox for nine seasons, has talked about retirement since 1960. He made his decision finally to do it Thursday at a hastily called news conference.

For the last month, the Sox brass had contended that Lopez was "making up his mind." Owner Art Allyn and General Manager Ed Short apparently had hoped he would stay as field boss.

Lopez will remain with the organization as a vice president, serving as an adviser to Short. As such, his decisions will carry weight in all areas, including the choice of a new manager.

Short said he has a working list of as many as 22 names but conceded it would be easy to screen it down to five or six. He would not identify any.

Another is Charlie Metro, White Sox coach.

Lopez said Metro and his long-time friend, coach Tony Cuccinello, could do a good job but that was as far as talk went about his replacement.

"I'll be on 24-hour call and I'll go wherever Eddie (Short) wants," said Lopez. "If he wants me to spend some time at Indianapolis, or Lynchburg, or Portsmouth, or wherever we have some of our players, I'll drop in."

Short said Lopez had expressed a desire to quit the last few seasons.

"There's no doubt it was a letdown for him when we failed to win the pennant this year and finished second," said Short.

Breedlove's Capture Both Men, Women Land Marks

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP)—Mrs. Craig Breedlove's husband became the fastest man on wheels last Tuesday. And a woman has got to keep up with her man—at least that's the way she puts it.

Of course, it wasn't quite keeping up — Breedlove roared to the 555.127 m.p.h. mark Tuesday to shatter Art Arfons' 536.71 mark set last year.

The pretty, dark-haired Lee's new mark shattered the 277.15 m.p.h. record set last September by Betty Skelton of Detroit, who drove Arfons' Green Monster Cyclops.

Lee's ride Thursday was the first time anyone except her husband had driven the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.-sponsored jet car.

Lee, who said she had never driven competitively before, spent a few hours Wednesday getting acquainted with the jet car and its controls. She took only three practice runs Thursday morning before going for the record.

Her first test run was clocked at 99 m.p.h., the second at 187 and the third at 288. Her husband moved the throttle stop up after each run.

Breedlove beamed as he pulled her from the car after the record runs and lifted her to his shoulder to hear chief timer for the U.S. Auto Club, Joe Petralli, announce a new mark.

"The car handled fine," the 28-year-old brunette said later. "It moved around the track some on the last run, but it wasn't hard to control."

Moccasin Is 2-5 Pick In Rich Gardenia Run

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) — Willie Shoemaker usually doesn't accept a mount in a big race unless he feels he has a good chance to win. He's taken on Lou Wolfson's Swift Lady for Saturday's rich Gardenia Stakes at Garden State Park.

But even the top money winning jockey of them all could be whistling in the dark this time. To get the fat end of the probable $134,190 Gardenia purse he and his mount will have to beat Mocassin, undefeated in seven starts.

Shoemaker, who will be seeking an unprecedented fourth Gardenia victory, is counting on some help to spring one of racing's big 1965 upsets.

"If something in the race Saturday can go out and run with Moccasin, Swift Lady would have a good shot at winning it," Shoemaker said. "Nobody has been able to run with her (Moccasin) yet, but there may be something in this race that will."

Swift Lady has faced Moccasin three times already and wound up second twice, fifth in the other. Her biggest win was in a division of the Astarita at Aqueduct. She is listed as the 5-1 second choice in the Gardenia.

Moccasin, to be ridden by Larry Adams, is considered speed crazy and hard to rate, but as trainer Harry Trotsek puts it, since nobody has been able to keep pace with her even he doesn't know what she'll do if given a stiff early run.

Probably figuring that even Man o' War and Native Dancer were beaten once, five of the eight other probable starters are paying $5,000 supplementary fees each for the shot at Moccasin.

For Joy, Prides Profile, Hula Girl, Lady Pitt and Lady Dulcinea all are supplementary entries. The other probable starters are Lady Diplomat, Wiley Road and Cherimoya.

Each carries 119 pounds with the probable post time 4 p.m., EST.

'Keep The Change' Leads To New Fine

PARIS, Tenn. (AP) — George Ray has discovered that tearing up a $5 bill can be more serious than the loss of the cash.

Ray went to police headquarters to pay a $15 speeding ticket. He dropped a $20 bill on the sergeant's desk and said, "Keep the change."

The sergeant insisted that Ray take the change. Ray walked out.

A police car overtook him and an officer handed him the $5 bill and a receipt. Ray tore both up and tossed the remains on the sidewalk.

$24 Million Super Dome

New Orleans' NFL Stock Soars With Stadium Plan

By BEN THOMAS
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — This city's stock as the National Football League's 16th member soared today after the announcement of plans to build a $24-million super-dome stadium.

But promoter Dave Dixon, who has been angling for a pro football franchise for years, has even greater visions such as the Pan-American track games, the NCAA basketball championship tourney, and world championship prizefights.

Dixon even sees the Sugar Bowl switching from 82,500-seat Tulane University Stadium to the 60,000 super dome "and getting $8 a ticket for air-conditioned comfort on Jan. 1."

And Marvin E. Kratter, the New York financier who recently set up shop in New Orleans to build a billion-dollar real estate development, predicts the city could land the Olympics.

Kratter is donating a 100-acre tract of land valued at $2 million for the proposed stadium on the shore of Lake Ponchartrain.

The announcement of plans for the stadium came Thursday from Mayor Victor H. Schiro.

In New York, an NFL spokesman said the availability of the heavily in New Orleans' favor in the granting of a franchise.

"Currently, we are having research conducted by an independent firm in seven cities, one of which is New Orleans," said the spokesman. "And certainly, one of the major considerations in its study will be the availability of suitable stadiums.

"Certainly construction of such a stadium in New Orleans would be in its favor, as it would in any of the other six."

The NFL says it will grant a franchise for a 16th team — to begin playing in the 1967 season — sometime next spring. Other cities in the running are Houston, which has the Astrodome, Portland, Seattle, Boston, Cincinnati and Phoenix.

4 Monkeys Cut 'Monkeyshine' Around Airport

BOSTON (AP) — The only thing worse than a barrel full of monkeys is an airport terminal full of monkeys, as a harassed group of freight handlers and animal experts know today.

Four rhesus monkeys on their way to the Harvard School of Public Health for research purposes escaped from their cages early Thursday at the air freight terminal at Logan International Airport.

The four — Blackie, Baldy, Brucie and Boliba—immediately took to beams and rafters overhead and made monkeys out of everybody trying to catch them for the rest of the day.

Finally three of the monkeys were overpowered in 45 minutes of hand-to-hand combat. But Boliba, described as the ringleader of the insurrection, was still loose at last report, up there swinging.

Miami Can Clinch Tie For Mid-America Title

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State's clash with Indiana and important Mid - American and Ohio Conference contests spice an attractive collegiate football schedule this weekend in the Buckeye State.

Coach Woody Hayes' team needs a victory over lightly regarded Indiana to cling to its fading hopes for a championship in the Big Ten.

Surging Miami, 4-1, can clinch at least a tie for the Mid-Am crown with a victory over Toledo, 2-3, at Oxford.

And in the 15-member Ohio Conference, Muskingum, 5-0, can also nail down at least a tie for the league title by beating Denison at New Concord.

Bowling Green, last year's MAC king, has to win its next two, against Marshall and Ohio University, to share honors with the Redskins. The Falcons, 3-1, are expected to prevail over the injury-ridded West Virginians, 1-2.

Ohio U., 0-7 on the season and 0-3 in the loop, entertains Western Michigan, 2-2-1. The Bobcats will be fighting to avoid their worst season ever.

Outside the league, Kent State visits rugged Penn State and a good showing in this one, despite a loss, would boost league prestige.

Capital, still alive in the OC, takes on Wooster and its star back Rod Dingle, the league's best rusher and leading scorer.

In other features, Akron plays host to Butler, Wittenberg is at home to Wabash, slumping Cincinnati visits Kansas State, Findlay, beaten last week for the first time, tries to rebound against Hillsdale, and Dayton goes to Cincinnati for a match with potent Xavier.

The others:

Al Lopez Retires As Sox' Manager

CHICAGO (AP) — The greatest baseball bridesmaid in history has turned in his uniform.

He piloted two pennant winners in 15 years as a major league manager — in 1954 with the Cleveland Indians and in 1959 with the White Sox. His teams finished second 10 times.

Lopez, who guided the Sox for nine seasons, has talked about retirement since 1960. He made his decision finally to do it Thursday at a hastily called news conference.

For the last month, the Sox brass had contended that Lopez was "making up his mind." Owner Art Allyn and General Manager Ed Short apparently had hoped he would stay as field boss.

Lopez will remain with the organization as a vice president, serving as an adviser to Short. As such, his decisions will carry weight in all areas, including the choice of a new manager.

Short said he has a working list of as many as 22 names but conceded it would be easy to screen it down to five or six. He would not identify any.

Another is Charlie Metro, White Sox coach.

Lopez said Metro and his long-time friend, coach Tony Cuccinello, could do a good job but that was as far as talk went about his replacement.

"I'll be on 24-hour call and I'll go wherever Eddie (Short) wants," said Lopez. "If he wants me to spend some time at Indianapolis, or Lynchburg, or Portsmouth, or wherever we have some of our players, I'll drop in."

Short said Lopez had expressed a desire to quit the last few seasons.

"There's no doubt it was a letdown for him when we failed to win the pennant this year and finished second," said Short.

Breedlove's Capture Both Men, Women Land Marks

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP)—Mrs. Craig Breedlove's husband became the fastest man on wheels last Tuesday. And a woman has got to keep up with her man—at least that's the way she puts it.

So Thursday she did something about it.

Lee Breedlove jumped in her husband's Spirit of America Sonic I jet car and streaked across these western Utah Salt Flats to establish a world land speed mark for women — 308.56 miles per hour.

Of course, it wasn't quite keeping up — Breedlove roared to the 555.127 m.p.h. mark Tuesday to shatter Art Arfons' 536.71 mark set last year.

But it gave her the same title — fastest.

The pretty, dark-haired Lee's new mark shattered the 277.15 m.p.h. record set last September by Betty Skelton of Detroit, who drove Arfons' Green Monster Cyclops.

Lee's ride Thursday was the first time anyone except her husband had driven the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.-sponsored jet car.

Lee, who said she had never driven competitively before, spent a few hours Wednesday getting acquainted with the jet car and its controls. She took only three practice runs Thursday morning before going for the record.

Her first test run was clocked at 99 m.p.h., the second at 187 and the third at 288. Her husband moved the throttle stop up after each run.

Breedlove beamed as he pulled her from the car after the record runs and lifted her to his shoulder to hear chief timer for the U.S. Auto Club, Joe Petralli, announce a new mark.

"The car handled fine," the 28-year-old brunette said later. "It moved around the track some on the last run, but it wasn't hard to control."

Moccasin Is 2-5 Pick In Rich Gardenia Run

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) — Willie Shoemaker usually doesn't accept a mount in a big race unless he feels he has a good chance to win. He's taken on Lou Wolfson's Swift Lady for Saturday's rich Gardenia Stakes at Garden State Park.

But even the top money winning jockey of them all could be whistling in the dark this time. To get the fat end of the probable $134,190 Gardenia purse he and his mount will have to beat Mocassin, undefeated in seven starts.

Moccasin is the 2-5 choice to canter home in the 1 1-16-mile stake for 2-year-old fillies. Thus far, the mighty miss from A. B. Hancock's Clarborne Farm hasn't even been extended.

Shoemaker, who will be seeking an unprecedented fourth Gardenia victory, is counting on some help to spring one of racing's big 1965 upsets.

"If something in the race Saturday can go out and run with Moccasin, Swift Lady would have a good shot at winning it," Shoemaker said. "Nobody has been able to run with her (Moccasin) yet, but there may be something in this race that will."

Swift Lady has faced Moccasin three times already and wound up second twice, fifth in the other. Her biggest win was in a division of the Astarita at Aqueduct. She is listed as the 5-1 second choice in the Gardenia.

Moccasin, to be ridden by Larry Adams, is considered speed crazy and hard to rate, but as trainer Harry Trotsek puts it, since nobody has been able to keep pace with her even he doesn't know what she'll do if given a stiff early run.

Probably figuring that even Man o' War and Native Dancer were beaten once, five of the eight other probable starters are paying $5,000 supplementary fees each for the shot at Moccasin.

For Joy, Prides Profile, Hula Girl, Lady Pitt and Lady Dulcinea all are supplementary entries. The other probable starters are Lady Diplomat, Wiley Road and Cherimoya.

Each carries 119 pounds with the probable post time 4 p.m., EST.

'Keep The Change' Leads To New Fine

PARIS, Tenn. (AP) — George Ray has discovered that tearing up a $5 bill can be more serious than the loss of the cash.

Ray went to police headquarters to pay a $15 speeding ticket. He dropped a $20 bill on the sergeant's desk and said, "Keep the change."

The sergeant insisted that Ray take the change. Ray walked out.

A police car overtook him and an officer handed him the $5 bill and a receipt. Ray tore both up and tossed the remains on the sidewalk.

How Can I?

ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I clean bronze ornaments?

A.—These items should not be washed. Dust carefully, and follow with a wiping with a cloth moistened in paraffin oil. Polish with a chamois.

Q. — How can I improvise a chalkboard for my children?

A. — A discarded window shade makes a very serviceable chalkboard for youngsters. Paint it black and hang it at a convenient height.

Q. — How can I join lace so that it will not be noticeable?

A. — Try to patch the design over on the same design, carefully whipping one on the other. If artfully done, the place where the lace is joined will hardly be noticeable. Do not make a French seam when joining lace.

Q. — What can I do about grease spots that have been allowed to become well set in fabrics?

A. — You can try "fighting fire with fire." Rub fresh grease into the spots, then wash immediately.

Q.—How can I remove floor wax stains from washable materials?

A.—Laundering will remove most of the wax stain, and any leftover traces will usually yield to a carbon tetrachloride spotting treatment.

Junior Editors Quiz on STEEL

QUESTION: What is the difference between iron and steel?

ANSWER: Iron ore is taken from vast deposits west of Lake Superior. The ore is carried by steamer to various plants were iron is extracted from it. This is done in a blast furnace. Ore is loaded in from the top, then coke and limestone are added. A blast of hot air makes the coke burn, which melts the ore while the limestone carries off many impurities. Molten or liquid iron trickles down to the bottom and is drawn off. This may be allowed to harden into bars of pig iron, some of which may be melted down again as cast iron, or, in a process using silicate or melted sand, made into wrought iron. But most of the molten iron is used in the great steel-making plants to produce the tremendously important material steel, which is iron with more impurities taken out and certain substances added. The main picture shows molten iron poured into a "Bessemer converter", and, after having its final impurities burned out under high pressure, being poured out in the form of molten steel. This is cooled into ingots, which later will be reheated and rolled into various shapes for manufacturing.

FOR YOU TO DO: Steel is harder and stronger than iron, and looks smoother and more glossy. Look around your house and try to decide which metal objects are steel and which iron. Light, silvery-looking metal usually is aluminum.

$20,000 Sought To Improve Field At Beaver Local

A drive for some $20,000 to provide needed improvements at the Beaver Local High School football field will be launched Nov. 20 by a special committee.

Jack Pozenel of West Point, former Board of Education member, heads the two - week campaign, which will begin with a house - to - house solicitation.

A list of priority projects has been prepared, with each to be undertaken in order, depending on the amount of money obtained, Pozenel said.

Top priority will be given to placing new top soil on the playing area, reseeding with grass and providing adequate water to the area for maintenance.

The next project will be to raise the home bleachers four feet to provide a better view of the field. Next would be erection of new bleachers for the visitors' side.

After that would be provision of storage space and shower rooms under the home bleachers. Last would be erection of fencing about the playing area, Pozenel said.

Cost of the first project would be about $2,500. Cost of projects two, three and four would be about $15,000. The fencing project is estimated at about $1,000.

More chairmen are to be selected later.

Whites Aid Negro Farmer After Fire Kills Daughter

By HORACE CORT
AP Photographer

RUTLEDGE, Ga. (AP) — "This showed us that white folks don't hate Negroes," said Lamar Thomas, a Negro tenant farmer, as tears of gratitude trickled down his face.

Nearly $2,000 and other gifts of clothes, furniture and food have poured in from over the nation to the Thomas family after fire destroyed their small frame home and took the life of a 4-year-old daughter.

Mrs. Thomas said today many of the donations came from white persons.

"The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh," she said, of the gifts and of the death of little Vellson.

"If it were not for the fine Christian people who sent us all these things, I don't know what we would have done."

One week ago, Thomas and a white furniture salesman, Frank McRee of nearby Madison, Ga., were talking in a cotton field when the salesman saw the house in flames.

Thomas, who is almost blind, cried, "Oh, my God, my children are in there."

McRee sprinted to the house, kicked in a window encased in flames, grabbed 10-month-old Lamar Jr., and tossed him out to Thomas.

McRee, blinded by smoke and flame, could not locate the other child. McRee leaped out the window when the roof began to fall. The little girl later was found dead under a bed.

At dusk, white neighbors found the Thomas family sitting on the ground near the rubble of their burned home. The neighbors found them a house nearby, rented it for them and started collecting furniture.

A story and pictures were carried by The Associated Press nationally. Soon, mail began to pour in for the Thomases.

The family now has running water in their home for the first time. They also now have a television set, a new stove and refrigerator and better clothes.

"We sure are going to have a better Thanksgiving this year than ever before, thanks to all those warm-hearted people," said Mrs. Thomas. "And don't you think we won't be thankful."

Ohio's Business Mission Appears Working 2 Ways

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP) —The British evidently are doing as good a job of selling Ohio's trade mission on British exports as the Buckeye businessmen led by Gov. James A. Rhodes are doing of selling them on Ohio products.

After a one-day visit Thursday to Birmingham, second largest city in England, Rhodes remarked, "This is not a one-way street idea—it is a two-way street."

The governor said, "We realize that we need both exports and imports and it is by interchange of trade that both Ohio and Birmingham can prosper and provide work for our people."

The lord mayor of Birmingham entertained the Ohioans at a civic luncheon, and the governor invited the mayor and his wife to visit Ohio when a Birmingham Chamber of Commerce group tours North America next spring.

Lawyers Rap Pennsylvania School Board

HARRISBURG, Pa. — Attorneys from Beaver and Adams counties Thursday challenged in Commonwealth Court the authority of the Pennsylvania Board of Education to amend county plans of school district reorganization without showing proper cause.

The lawyers contended the board went beyond its powers in changing county plans without proving the county school boards had acted arbitrarily.

The arguments opened two days of hearings by the court on appeals from state board reorganization adjudications in five counties. Districts from Butler, Snyder and Washington counties are listed for today.

In all, the court consolidated 27 appeals into 10 arguments. Additional appeals are to be heard next January.

The appeals are not directed at the constitutionality of the 1963 act requiring reorganization since that act was upheld by the state Supreme Court last April.

In the Adams County case, the board, acting on an appeal from a district, merged the county's six proposed districts into one county-wide unit.

In Beaver County, the board reduced the 15 proposed districts to 12.

Attorneys for the appealing districts argued that in both instances, the county boards submitted plans which had to be accepted automatically under provisions of the 1963 Reorganization Act.

The 1963 law specified that the Council of Basic Education, the first board agency to review the plans, must approve proposals which conformed to those drawn by the counties in 1953 under a voluntary reorganization feature of the school code.

The law removed any discretion from the council where the 1963 plans contained no more districts nor no district smaller in population than the smallest district in the 1953 plan.

Motorist Dodges Barricade, Hits Car On W. 6th St.

A motorist switched lanes this morning to avoid a street barricade on W. 6th St. at Jackson St. and wound up in a collision with another auto, police reported.

Jack A. Lanam, 39, of 233 Highland Ave., Wellsville, told police his 1961 station wagon was bumped in the rear by a 1963 hardtop operated by Henry C. Wilkes, 62, of 1807 Buckeye Ave., Wellsville.

Lanam said as he approached the traffic light at the intersection Wilkes pulled to the left because he saw a barricade in his lane. The mishap was timed at 7:06 a.m.

Meanwhile, Betty Smith Morrison, 45, of 2232 St. Clair Ave. escaped injury Thursday afternoon when her 1962 two-door sedan hopped a curb on St. Clair Ave., 75 feet north of Walnut St., and crashed into a retaining wall.

The woman told police she was driving north on St. Clair about 2:19 p.m. when she swerved to avoid a brick lying on the pavement. The car veered to the left and hit the wall, police said.

Hancock Woman Given Probation In Shooting Case

NEW CUMBERLAND—Judge Ralph Pryor has granted probation in the case of Mrs. Gertrude Huggins, 48, of Dixon St., Weirton, in Hancock County Circuit Court.

Mrs. Huggins, charged with the shooting death of 51 - year-old Warren L. Wiley of Cove Rd., Weirton, on July 24, changed her plea from not guilty on a charge of first degree murder to guilty of involuntary manslaughter.

The reduction of the charge followed a conference between Leonard Z. Alpert, defense counsel, and Floyd Tarr, county prosecutor.

Lawyers Rap Pennsylvania School Board

HARRISBURG, Pa. — Attorneys from Beaver and Adams counties Thursday challenged in Commonwealth Court the authority of the Pennsylvania Board of Education to amend county plans of school district reorganization without showing proper cause.

The lawyers contended the board went beyond its powers in changing county plans without proving the county school boards had acted arbitrarily.

The arguments opened two days of hearings by the court on appeals from state board reorganization adjudications in five counties. Districts from Butler, Snyder and Washington counties are listed for today.

In all, the court consolidated 27 appeals into 10 arguments. Additional appeals are to be heard next January.

The appeals are not directed at the constitutionality of the 1963 act requiring reorganization since that act was upheld by the state Supreme Court last April.

In the Adams County case, the board, acting on an appeal from a district, merged the county's six proposed districts into one county-wide unit.

In Beaver County, the board reduced the 15 proposed districts to 12.

Attorneys for the appealing districts argued that in both instances, the county boards submitted plans which had to be accepted automatically under provisions of the 1963 Reorganization Act.

The 1963 law specified that the Council of Basic Education, the first board agency to review the plans, must approve proposals which conformed to those drawn by the counties in 1953 under a voluntary reorganization feature of the school code.

The law removed any discretion from the council where the 1963 plans contained no more districts nor no district smaller in population than the smallest district in the 1953 plan.
